U.S. 'WON'T TOLERATE' RED ATTACKS

Nixon Warns Of 'Response'

. . . BUT HE'S NOT SPECIFIC

Washington (AP) — President Nixon declared Tuesday night that the United States "will not tolerate" continuation of the new Communist offensive in South Vietnam.

He warned there will be an appropriate U.S. response if assaults on South Vietnamese cities continue.

Nixon said he has considered a resumption of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, but would not indicate whether he might take that step.

Deeds Louder

He would not say what action might be ordered, maintaining that deeds would prove more effective than threatening words.

Even as he said a decision will come soon as to whether U.S. action is required, Nixon spoke hopefully of progress in relations with the giant of the Communist world, the Soviet Union.

He said his journey through the allied capitals of Europe was a necessary precedent to broad summit talks with the Soviet Union.

And he spoke hopefully of Soviet peacemaking gestures, in the Middle East and possibly even in the Vietnam conflict.

Report On Trip

At a White House news conference lasting just short of an hour — Nixon's chosen format for a report on the European mission he concluded Sunday night — talk of that continent was overshadowed by the account of the situation in Southeast Asia.

Nixon said Communist attacks on cities and bases in South Vietnam are a violation of the understandings which led to the current peace negotiations in Paris.

He reported that his journey to Europe has created "a new relationship of trust and confidence" with allied governments — but his account of the situation on that continent soon gave way to a statement of intent in the Vietnam conflict.

Warning Twice

Twice, in almost identical words, Nixon sounded his warning: ". . . We will not tolerate a continuation of this kind of attack without some response that will be appropriate."

In a foreign policy discussion that ranged over world trouble spots Nixon:

—Reported that the situation in West Berlin, subjected to Communist travel harassment, "seems to have leveled off," but is changing hour by hour.

Nixon said the Soviet Union has been told that harassment of the isolated city will jeopardize relations with the West.

"At this moment . . . I believe that the Soviet Union does not want to have the situation in West Berlin heated up to the point where it would jeopardize more important negotiations at the highest level with the United States," he said.

—Said his journey to five allied nations in Europe produced "substantial progress" toward a conference to resolve the situation in the troubled Middle East.

He said that as a result of his conferences, the positions of the United States and those of Britain and France are closer than before.

"We have had encouraging talks with the Soviet ambassador" to Washington, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, on the subject, Nixon said.

He said if these consultations continue at their "present rate of progress," there will be four-power discussions of the Middle East at the United Nations.

—His European trip created "a new relationship of trust and confidence" with allies there, the President said, and has helped prepare for future summit talks with the Soviet Union. "This tour was a condition precedent to an East-West summit at a later time," he said.

—Said there are no plans to withdraw U.S. troops from Vietnam in the near future. He said he has asked for a reexamination of U.S. manpower levels. The President said in a statement opening the news conference that his European trip "was a condition precedent to an East-West summit at a later time.

He said the East-West relationship was a topic in every capital he visited: Brussels, London, Bonn, Rome and Paris. Nixon said he discussed not only U.S. policies and plans, but European views and advice.

ENTERTAINER . . . 8-year-old Patrick McDivitt gets laughs as he dons a rabbit skin while waiting for school bus Tuesday.

Wednesday Is Big Day; Astronauts Take It Easy

Space Center, Houston (AP) — Working at a leisurely pace and joking with ground controllers, the Apollo 9 astronauts rocketed to 313 miles above the earth Tuesday. Then they rested for manning Wednesday of the bug-like moonship and the first of two television shows on the flight.

Air Force Cols. James A. McDivitt and David. R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart, a civilian, three times fired the powerful rocket at the back of the command ship, entering into a 313-by-125-mile orbit.

The crew then started a rest period of almost 10 hours. Mission planners gave the crew a long sleep Tuesday night because of the work load facing them Wednesday.

'Smokey Says. . .'

"Smokey bids you a fond night's sleep," said a ground controller on the night shift as the crew bedded down. When one astronaut started up some more chatter, the controller joked, "We refuse to talk to you. It's a rest period."

"Spider," the lunar landing craft will be powered up for the first time Wednesday. Its large rocket engine will be fired in a test critical to success of the mission and of the lunar landing planned for midsummer.

A 7-minute television show at 8:27 a.m., CST, also is planned.

To Shift Crafts

McDivitt and Schweickart will crawl into the moonship through a tunnel locking the spacecrafts together. It will be the first time American spacemen will have moved from one spacecraft to another in space.

The three firings of the rocket engine were tests of the handling characteristics of the command ship and lunar lander while they are locked together.

It also cut the weight of the command module so that it can be more easily maneuvered.

The crew was ahead of its flight plan schedule at one point and Schweickart asked for new data on landing sites that will be used in the event of an emergency.

"Sorry about that, Rusty," came the reply. "We don't have that yet . . . the weather has turned pretty bad in some of the areas and we had to shift areas."

"Uh . . . why don't we just stay up for a few days," came a voice from space.

"OK, that sounds like a good idea."

"The food and bubbly are holding out all right," an astronaut joked.

AUTOBAHN SHUT 2 HOURS . . .

West Berlin Leftists Protest Vote Today

Berlin (AP) — East Germany cut off autobahn traffic to the West for two hours late Tuesday in its war of nerves against holding the West German presidential election in West Berlin.

Inside the city, leftists staged widespread demonstrations to protest Wednesday's vote.

Helmeted East German soldiers stalled cars and trucks, including some British army vehicles, at 4 p.m. Tuesday by raising barriers at the West Berlin entrance to the superhighway and at Helmstedt, the West German border crossing point 110 miles away. Promptly at 6 p.m. the barriers came down and traffic was allowed to move again.

Riot Police In Force

Helmeted West Berlin riot police turned out in force later to counter hit-and-run tactics of about 2,000 leftist demonstrators.

The widespread demonstrations added an internal menace to the election, already subject to massive threats from the surrounding East Germans and Russians.

Demonstrators shattered six glass panes at Amerika Haus, the U.S. cultural center, and a large window in a swank cafe in downtown West Berlin.

Glass fragments were strewn across a major intersection of the Kurfuerstendamm, West Berlin's main street, where demonstrators smashed the windows of a police vehicle.

Scores Arrested

Scores of persons were arrested. The number of injured could not be determined, but ambulances were seen carrying several persons away.

Earlier in the evening, 500 young leftists had gathered on the Kurfuerstendamm chanting, "Nazis, get out of West Berlin."

The chants were directed mainly against 22 members of West Germany's right-wing National Democratic Party who are delegates to the federal assembly.

The assembly, a 1,036-member electoral college made up of federal legislators and state representatives, is to choose a successor here Wednesday to President Heinrich Luebke, who is retiring.

Most Serious Yet

The blockade, most serious in a sequence of harassments engineered lately by the East German regime of Communist chief Walter Ulbricht, was attributed like the others to Warsaw Pact military maneuvers in the intervening Communist territory.

A U.S. spokesman said: "We are taking up the matter with the proper authorities." That meant the Russians. The Western Big Three hold the Soviet Union, not the East Germans, responsible for Berlin's access routes, surface and air.

Federal assembly members were not directly affected. Barred by East German edict a month ago from coming in by land, they flew in aboard allied planes that regularly ply the three air corridors linking this city with the West by Big Four agreement.

Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger made the 300-mile flight from Bonn in a U.S. Air Force Constellation.

West Has Precedent

The East Germans and the Russians contend West Berlin is not a part of West Germany but a third and separate German entity and hold that an election there is illegal. By precedent the West Germans have held three other such demonstrations of the West German presence in West Berlin in the past 15 years.

Rivals for the presidency, a largely ceremonial job that pays the equivalent of $30,000 a year, are Defense Minister Gerhard Schroeder and Justice Minister Gustav Heinemann.

Schroeder, 58, a nominee of the Christian Democratic Union, is the dean of the Bonn cabinet. He is strongly oriented toward the United States and, as foreign minister, visited Washington three times in the administration of President John F. Kennedy.

Loan Industry Calls Rate Cutting Bill 'Invitation To Mafia'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Small loan company spokesmen Tuesday told the Legislature's Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee that a reduction in permissible interest rates could invite organized crime into Nebraska's loan industry.

Legislation which seeks to reduce maximum rates would "wipe out" local lenders, except for national chain lenders, and "walk into the hands of the Mafia and the Cosa Nostra," according to Arthur Werner of Winnetka, Ill.

Werner testified for the Nebraska Consumer Credit Association.

Black market loan sharks, charging interest rates without regard to statutory ceilings, would replace regulated small loan companies in the state, Werner said.

The bill, LB710, sponsored by Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway, would reduce maximum interest rates on installment loans from 30% to 24% for the first $300; from 24% to 18% for the next $200, and from 18 to 15% on the next $500.

A 12% limit would remain in effect for the next $2,000.

Waldron said his bill would "lower interest rates for those who deserve credit" and eliminate credit for higher risk borrowers.

Public costs would be reduced if the bankruptcy caseload and welfare rolls were decreased, he noted.

Interest rates are "too high," Waldron said, and it is "too easy" for bad risks to get credit.

Speaking for the Nebraska Consumer Credit Association, Lincoln attorney Charles Thone said current rates, set in 1963, are reasonable, particularly in view of recent increases in prime interest rates and inflationary costs.

The alternative, he warned, would be loan sharks charging "astronomical rates."

Werner said a 36% maximum prevails in four neighboring states.

LB710 was held for later consideration along with two real estate broker bills, one of which drew strong opposition from the Nebraska Real Estate Association.

The latter bill, LB627, would, in its original form, eliminate the Nebraska Real Estate Commission's authority to examine brokers' trust accounts.

Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenburg, introducer of the bill, offered an amendment which would require brokers to obtain a $50,000 fidelity bond to be filed with the commission.

Calving Losses Said Higher Than Normal

Nebraska cattle raisers are experiencing "more than normal losses" in calving operations so far this year, but agriculture spokesmen said Tuesday the losses are largely confined to local areas.

A. V. Nordquist, chief of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics, said that the losses reported so far are not expected to seriously harm statewide calf totals.

Nebraska produces around two million calves annually, he noted, and "it takes quite a catastrophe" to lower that figure.

For some ranchers and farmers, however, the statewide figure is academic, he admitted. One northeast Nebraska farmer had reported losses of up to 60% in his area.

The losses have been caused by two factors, according to University of Nebraska livestock specialist Paul Guyer. After a rough winter, most of the state's cattle are in poor overall shape anyway, he said.

In addition, he said, drought problems last summer have created hay and forage shortages in some parts of the state, particularly the northeast, leaving the animals deficient in vitamin A.

Guyer recommended adding vitamin A to the feed of cattle which have not yet calved. Young calves deficient in vitamin A may need shots after they are born, he said.

February calving is usually only a small portion of the state's total. Most calves are born in March and April, Guyer said.

"Generally speaking for the whole state, and considering the two to three months of rough winter we've been through," Nordquist said, "I don't think there've been exceptionally heavy losses.

"Locally, some of the losses have been pretty heavy, but from what we hear from county extension agents, the situation isn't really serious statewide."

Police Seeking Suspect In Pawn Shop Burglary

A warrant has been issued for a suspect believed to have been connected with a burglary in which about $5,000 worth of guns and jewelry was taken from Charlie's Pawn Shop, Lincoln police said Tuesday.

The intruder entered the shop, police said, by crawling through a storeroom window at the adjacent Sam Lawrence Hotel, 1042 P St., crossing a roof and then entering a window in the unoccupied second story above the shop.

From there, the burglar apparently lowered himself by rope through a hole which police said looked as though it had been "kicked" through the ceiling.

An estimated $3,000 to $4,000 worth of jewelry and $1,000 worth of guns were reported taken, police said.

Capt. Robert Butcher said the suspect had registered Sunday evening at the hotel, and had checked out before the burglary was discovered the following morning.

Biological Arms Cost $350 Million

© New York Times Service

Washington — Because a congressman's wife was upset after watching a television program, the Army was forced to disclose Tuesday that the Pentagon is spending $350 million annually to develop and produce chemical and biological warfare weapons.

At a private briefing for a group of senators and representatives, the Army was quick to point that the United States effort in chemical-biological warfare was outmatched by that of the Soviet Union. According to Army estimates, the Russians have seven to eight times the capability of the entire free world for waging chemical and biological warfare.

The briefing also brought out that the Army was regularly shipping by rail to and from test centers 300-gallon cannisters of a nerve gas, known as G-B, a few drops of which are sufficient to kill a person.

The briefing, attended by two dozen congressmen, was arranged by Rep. Richard D. McCarthy, a three-term Democratic House member from Buffalo, N.Y.

After watching a recent National Broadcasting Co. show on chemical-biological warfare, McCarthy's wife asked him what he knew about the subject. McCarthy replied "nothing" and proceeded to arrange for the briefing by Brig. Gen. James A. Hebbeler, the director of chemical - biological-radiological (CBR) and nuclear operations of the Army.

Pressed at the briefing for a budget estimate, Hebbeler somewhat reluctantly said all the military services were spending about $350 million annually on chemical-biological warfare, but he added the injunction that this information was "confidential" and could not be made public.

Welfare Director Bill Killed By Committee

The Legislature's Public Health and Welfare Committee Tuesday killed a bill which would have revised the qualifications of the state welfare director.

Gov. Norbert Tiemann's office had proposed that the bill, LB899, be amended to permit acting director Robert McManus to meet statutory qualifications.

LB899 would have required the director to have a master's degree in social work, in addition to current statutory requirements of seven years experience as an administrator in public welfare.

The vote to kill the bill, sponsored by Sen. Elmer Wallwey of Emerson, was 5 to 1.

Robert Barnett, counsel to the governor, had proposed that qualifications be altered to permit a director to serve if he has had "10 years experience in an executive capacity."

RFK's Stand On Israel Root Of Sirhan's Hatred

World News

Los Angeles (AP) — Arab-born Sirhan Bishara Sirhan testified Tuesday that his love for Robert F. Kennedy turned to hatred because of the senator's support of Israel, and that he would have killed him nearly three weeks earlier had he been able.

"At that time, sir, the way I felt about it, if he was in front of me, so help me God, he would have died," Sirhan said at his murder trial for the assassination of Kennedy.

Reading page after page from Sirhan's personal diary, defense attorney Grant B. Cooper brought out that the 24-year-old defendant craved revenge against American government officials whom he considered pro-Israeli, and not in favor of the territorial integrity of his native Jordan.

How About LBJ?

Q. Did you ever have in mind killing President Johnson?

A. No, but I hated his guts at one point. He said the United States supports the territorial integrity of all nations, and he stressed all nations.

Q. You thought of assassinating him?

A. I must have.

For the same reason, Sirhan testified of former U.S. ambassador Arthur Goldberg: "I felt he should die . . . Why not, sir? He did not stick to his word."

Sirhan said he felt neither Johnson nor Goldberg kept their pledge of territorial integrity when it came to Jordan.

"Do you feel you're crazy?" Cooper asked. "You think you're completely normal, don't you?"

"I don't think I'm crazy," Sirhan replied.

The defendant squirmed and smiled with embarrassment when Cooper read 44 pages from his diary. Many of the entries were unintelligible or repetitious.

'I Can't Explain'

Over and over Sirhan repeated, "I can't explain this."

Just before the trial adjourned for the night, Cooper read an entry which said: "Long live the Arab dream."

"I'll say it again, sir," interposed Sirhan. "Long live the Arab dream."

Sirhan said he would have killed Kennedy three weeks earlier than the June 5, 1968, assassination date if he could. The statement came while he was being questioned about May 18, 1968, exhortations in his notebook to kill the New York senator.

Sirhan shot and mortally wounded Kennedy June 5, 1968.

The young Arab said he was driven into a fury upon learning through a television show that Kennedy helped celebrate Israeli independence in 1948 and by a radio newscast that the senator favored the sale of 50 jet fighter planes to Israel last year.

'Burned Me Up'

"It burned me up," Sirhan testified emotionally. "Up to that time I loved Robert Kennedy. Until that moment I hoped he would be elected president."

But, Sirhan continued, it dawned on him that Kennedy "was doing a lot of things behind my back that I didn't know about."

"Zionism is more inimical to me than communism is to you," Sirhan told Cooper. "I have the same feelings about Zionism as you do about communism."

Sirhan said this was why he repeatedly wrote in his private notebooks, "RFK must die."

"I received the impression that Robert Kennedy was not all the good guy he was made out to be. It boiled me up again. I just thought of blasting him."

Hanoi Hosts NLF Delegation

New York Times Service

Saigon — North Vietnamese officials enthusiastically welcomed a high-ranking delegation of the National Liberation Front to Hanoi this week, according to Communist broadcasts monitored in Saigon.

The Viet Cong delegation was honored at a formal reception by President Ho Chi Minh and its movements have received unusual attention from North Vietnamese news agencies.

The delegation, led by Dr. Phung Van Cung, the senior vice chairman of the NLF, is the first group of high officials of the front to make a publicly announced formal visit to Hanoi in six years.

The primary purpose of the visit, according to American analysts, is to enhance the status of the front in the eyes of the world and of the Vietnamese. A secondary purpose is to bolster support for the war in the South among the North Vietnamese people.

Lodge, Ky Talk About Offensive

New York Times Service

Paris — The chief U.S. negotiator at the peace talks here, Henry Cabot Lodge, conferred Tuesday with Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam in what appeared to be a display of close coordination between Washington and Saigon.

The allied response to the Communist offensive in South Vietnam was believed to have been discussed.

Strategy at the Paris conference also was thought to have been discussed.

Rise In Gold Price Reflects Tensions, Worry Over Franc

New York Times Service

By CLYDE H. FARNSWORTH

Brussels — Gold prices rose to a new high in Europe Tuesday reflecting tensions in Berlin and the Middle East and concern over the French franc.

This was the beginning of the "rendezvous of March" — the long-anticipated confrontation between French unions on the one hand and the government and industry on the other, over the size of wage increases this year.

Gold buyers, who bid up prices to nearly $43 an ounce in Zurich and London and to $46.52 in Paris, were betting that the French would not be able to control inflation and that new wage increases would weaken the balance of payments and perhaps touch off a devaluation.

Disturbances Possible

Devaluation could create a series of monetary disturbances that could affect the official gold price, in the view of the speculators.

In the forward market the French franc continued to weaken.

Zurich foreign exchange dealers were quoting the franc for future delivery at a nine per cent annual discount in relation to the dollar. A week ago the forward discount was 7½.

Franc Key Currency

David Rockefeller, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank, recently termed the French franc Europe's key currency this year. If it could escape devaluation, he said, there might be monetary stability.

International tensions were another element in the demand for gold Tuesday.

A Swiss banker observed that news everywhere seemed to be bad. Other factors behind the buying were the decision by Japanese authorities to increase the gold content of their steadily rising monetary reserves, which now top $3 billion, and the refusal of South African authorities to sell gold in recent months.

The French treasury announced that reserves fell $89.7 million during February to $4.13 billion. The drop contrasted with gains of $14.9 million in January and $214.6 million in December.

British Reserves Rise $19.2 Million

New York Times Service

London — British reserves of gold and convertible currency rose $19.2 million in February to about $2.45 billion, the treasury announced Tuesday.

The increase was recorded after loan repayments totaling $237.6 million.

Seminarians Hold Building

By The Associated Press

Twenty Negro seminarians held control of the administration building at the Colgate Rochester Divinity School in Rochester, N.Y., on Tuesday and accused school officials of "a shocking lack of good faith."

The seminarians, members of the Black Caucus on Campus, took over Strong Hall on Sunday, nailing and chaining the doors shut.

Dr. Gene Bartlett, president of Colgate Rochester, cancelled all classes at the 200-student seminary at least through Wednesday. He said there would be no overt action taken to oust the dissenting students.

The students were demanding that more Negroes be named to the board of trustees and to professorships.

Students Released

In Big Rapids, Mich., about 300 Ferris State College students were released pending bond by a judge Tuesday after spending the night in the Big Rapids National Guard armory.

They had been arrested by Michigan State Police who broke through two locked glass doors in the administration building where the students were holding a sit-in. The arrests of the demonstrators, mostly Negroes, culminated a week of confrontations between Negroes and whites on the campus.

GIs Try To Trap Stubborn Battalion

Saigon (AP) — American infantrymen tried Wednesday to close a trap on a stubborn North Vietnamese battalion following a daylong battle 29 miles northwest of Saigon.

Elements of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division reported they killed 84 of the enemy in fighting Tuesday. They again engaged the Communists Wednesday along a favored Red infiltration route 12 miles from Cambodia.

The action dominated battle reports on the 11th day of the current enemy offensive.

20 Shellings Overnight

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands reported about 20 enemy shellings overnight — about equal to the last two nights. U.S. spokesmen say the offensive has leveled off, but may be approaching a new and possibly more violent phase.

Communist gunners pumped mortar fire into allied airfields at Ban Me Thuot and Camp Holloway near Pleiku in the central highlands, and the U.S. military-civilian compound at Tay Ninh City, 55 miles northwest of Saigon. The U.S. Command said there were no casualties or damage at any of the targets.

Near Pleiku, however, enemy mortars hit a South Vietnamese armored unit headquarters, killing two soldiers and wounding three, and a prisoner of war camp outside the city, wounding one soldier.

Sweeps Conducted

Allied forces Tuesday conducted a series of ground sweeps in an attempt to upset enemy plans for a second phase of the offensive.

The ground sweeps so far have failed to smoke out the 15 enemy battalions believed to be committed to attacks aimed ultimately at Saigon when the offensive began 10 days ago.

After sifting through captured documents and results of prisoner interrogations, one U.S. officer said: "Phase two is still shaky and may not go."

The analysts say allied spoiling actions have partly disrupted enemy plans and this may delay the second phase.

Their assessment squared largely with that of Saigon police sources.

The police said the first phase Feb. 23-March 2 was to include shellings of cities and a diversionary attack on Saigon from the south. The March 1-10 period is to be one of replanning and re-evaluation while keeping up the shellings and terrorist attacks.

The third phase, March 11 to the end of the month, will include ground attacks with reinforced units supported by artillery driving against Saigon from the north and northwest, the sources said.

7 Vietnam Allies Slate Conference

Seoul (UPI) — Foreign ministers of the seven allied nations fighting in the Vietnam war are expected to meet in Bangkok about May 23, informed South Korean government sources said Tuesday.

The meeting, the fourth to be held by the foreign ministers, would follow the annual ministerial council meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO).

Russia Says Peking Lies

New York Times Service

Moscow — The Soviet Union Tuesday night branded Communist China's version of last Sunday's frontier clash as "without foundation" and said Peking had provoked the incident to create an atmosphere of "nationalistic hysteria" behind Mao-tse-tung.

Responding sharply to Peking's claim that Russia's troops crossed into its territory, Tass, the official press agency, said "the Chinese reply, which advances impudent claims to Soviet territory, confirms once again that the armed incursion on March 2 this year was no accidental and isolated feature."

"The masterminds behind these gatherings link the latest attack of anti-Soviet hysteria with the ninth congress of the Chinese Communist Party, for which, judging by posters pasted up in Peking, preparations are underway," Tass said.

Grand Island — A local pathologist testified Tuesday that the body of Mrs. Phyllis Davis was virtually covered with bruises when he performed an autopsy some five days after she was found dead last Aug. 14.

Another witness who testified Tuesday during the first degree murder trial against Mrs. Davis' husband, Thomas F., in Hall County District Court here was introduced as an expert in accident investigation and reconstruction. The man, Prof. W. F. Weiland of Lincoln, said that in his opinion the meat slicer that had been in the back of the Davis family station wagon the night of the death could not possibly have been hurtled over the back of the seat and caused the death as the vehicle went off a county road into a ditch east of Grand Island.

The pathologist, Dr. Pierce T. Sloss, testified that he performed the autopsy on Aug. 19 — after a mortuary had enbalmed and cosmetologized the body — in the presence of another pathologist, who had been asked to attend the autopsy by the prosecution.

Dr. Sloss told the court that he found lacerations and bruises and skull fractures on Mrs. Davis' head and that below the neck he found many other bruises on her upper back, around her thigh and on her lower legs. He found no bone fractures below the level of her neck, nor did he find any bruises in her stomach area, he testified.

In Dr. Sloss' opinion Mrs. Davis died as the result of loss of blood from the scalp wound. The other bruises about the body were not serious enough in themselves to cause death, the pathologist said, though he stated some of them apparently took great force to produce.

Vagina Inflamed

Dr. Sloss also testified that Mrs. Davis' vagina was intensely inflamed when he examined her body. Both prosecution, led by R. M. Van Steenberg, and defense counsel, led by John Mitchell, asked Dr. Sloss if he had determined if she had had intercourse at any time shortly before her death and he said that he had not made that determination.

He said that the intensity of the womb inflamation, however, indicated that some kind of disease or infection had been present.

Dr. Sloss was shown color photographs of the interior of the death vehicle and testified that in his opinion blood spots on the interior rear view mirror and the headliner were going from right to left and were going upward as if being spurted. He said that he has witnessed blood spurts from the scalps of persons who had suffered wounds like Mrs. Davis' from 39 to 78 inches.

Mrs. Davis' stomach had no food in it, Dr. Sloss also testified. He said that in a healthy adult it usually takes about four hours for a "normal meal" to clear the stomach.

Dr. Sloss did not testify to finding any bruises on Mrs. Davis' arms or shoulders himself. However, he said that two police officers took color polaroid pictures of the body immediately before his autopsy — per his instructions — and agreed with Van Steenberg that those photos, introduced in evidence, did show such bruises.

Dr. Sloss said that lighting conditions can sometimes result in photographic reproductions bringing things into view that could not be seen by the naked eye.

Took Measurements

Prof. Weiland told the jury that he had a long background in mechanical engineering, college teaching and since 1962 has worked solely in the field of accident investigation and reconstruction. He said he went to the scene where the body was found himself on Feb. 3, 1969, and that he at that time also took measurements of the death car and of the objects in it.

Weiland's questioning by Van Steenberg was interrupted again and again and again by objections from Mitchell, but Weiland finally was allowed to give two critical opinions:

First, he testified that he determined that the station wagon was going between two and 2.7 miles per hour when it came to a stop in the ditch.

Secondly, Weiland said that in order for the meat slicer to have been thrown from the rear of the car and over the seat (as was reported by the State Patrol the day of the Davis death) the vehicle would have had to have been tilted downward very suddenly and at an angle of at least 25%.

Weiland said that according to his measurements and calculations, the Davis car would have been tipped forward only 13%. Adding the matter of insufficient speed together with the insufficient angle, Weiland concluded: "It would (have been) impossible for the meat slicer to fly over the back of the seat under the conditions that existed."

When asked by Mitchell if it were possible that the angle may have varied from 13%, Weiland agreed that it might have by "a couple of points." But it would have meant only an "insignificant amount" of change in his calculation, he said.

The first witness to appear for the prosecution Tuesday was Thomas F. Kelleher Jr., a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent from the Washington laboratory. He testified that the samples of material he received from Nebraska State Patrol investigators Donald Grieb were human blood of Type A.

Being cross-examined by Mitchell, Kelleher said that 40% of the humans in North America have Type A blood and that there was no way of telling if the samples were from a male or female.

Weiland became the first state's witness thus far to engage in a bit of talking back to Mitchell, when Mitchell's objections to Weiland's testimony at times seemed to interrupt practically every sentence being put to the jury by Weiland or Van Steenberg.

A couple of times Weiland told Mitchell — although continuing to look at the jury —"I believe I have already testified to how I made that calculation."

The prosecution also recalled Sgt. Grieb of the State Patrol to the stand Tuesday. He had been on the stand Monday as a foundation witness for Kelleher's testimony Tuesday.

Tuesday Grieb testified that he also sent samples of hair he found on the station wagon to the FBI lab and Van Steenberg indicated that another man will be here later in the week to testify to tests concerning the hair.

While Grieb was on the stand, however, Mitchell pointed out an apparent inconsistency in the interior measurements of the Davis station wagon between Grieb's testimony and Weiland's.

According to measurements Grieb said he made, there was 11 inches between the top of the front seat and the flat level of the back of the vehicle, whereas according to Weiland's testimony that measurement amounted to 14 inches.

In his cross-examination of Weiland, Mitchell elicited from the witness an acknowledgement that he expected to be paid for his tests by the prosecution. Van Steenberg during redirect examination thusly asked Weiland if he would change his testimony for money.

Weiland remarked that he testified to exactly what he found when he made his tests and told Van Steenberg "if my findings had shown you were wrong, I'd have told you you were barking up the wrong tree."

Missouri River Level Dropping

Omaha (AP) — Army Engineers said that the level of the Missouri River south of Omaha continues to drop.

The engineers said the river dropped four-tenths of a foot at Plattsmouth, 3½ feet at Nebraska City, 1½ feet at Brownville and three feet at Rulo.

According to the engineers, the river at Nebraska City is clear of ice and the bridge of ice south of Nebraska City lost about six miles, cutting the length to about 31 miles.

The engineers said the ice bridge from Florence to Decatur lost about a mile of ice during the weekend, reducing its length to about 48 miles.

Desegregation Review Urged For Schools In North, West

From Press Dispatches

Washington — School districts in a number of northern states, including Nebraska, have either been recommended for review or are in various stages of review in connection with desegregation rules of the Department of Health Education and Welfare, Secretary Robert H. Finch said Tuesday in a report to Congress.

The report recommended a bold desegregation enforcement program in the north and west.

The HEW secretary told Congress six northern school districts have been "notified of apparent violations" and two others have been referred to the Department of Justice for possible court action. None of the eight are in Nebraska.

The nine-page document establishing a nationwide school desegregation program under the Civil Rights Act of 1964 was submitted under a congressional mandate.

The act bars federal financial assistance to any program or activity discriminating on the basis of race, color or national origin.

Miller Receives No Word About Violations Here

Nebraska education Commissioner Floyd Miller said Tuesday his office "has heard nothing" from the federal government about a review of any Nebraska school districts for violations of federal school desegregation laws.

"If there's a problem the state agency has no knowledge of it," Miller said. "And if there's a problem and these people have not contacted us about it I would resent that procedure very much. Surely the state agency should be contacted about any problems of that sort.

"I strongly think it's either routine or error," he said. "We have heard nothing from the federal government and this is a complete surprise to me."

New Feeding Concepts Told, Research Reports Presented

The importance of a proper balanced ration and ingredients in the proper proportions were emphasized here Tuesday at the annual Nebraska Feed and Nutrition Conference.

The annual conference each year attracts scientists and researchers from many areas of the United States in a review of new feeding concepts and a report of research that is being conducted at different land-grant colleges.

Dr. T. W. Sullivan, University of Nebraska poultry scientist, said the future need for phosphorus in poultry and livestock feed needs to expand each year to keep pace with a growing animal and poultry production.

Dr. Sullivan, who has developed a formula for computing a single biological value for each phosphorus source, said a continual determination of the biological value of phosphorus sources is needed.

He reminded those attending the conference that total phosphorus content is meaningless unless its availability for growth is known.

Nitrate In Feeds

The reason livestock men can normally expect small amounts of nitrate in forages and feeds is that plants use nitrate from the soil in their growth process and when one harvests a plant while it is still growing one is certain to harvest some nitrate with it.

This was an explanation given by Dr. Kenneth L. Davison, stationed at the Metabolism and Radiation Research Laboratory, State University Station, Fargo, N.D.

Dr. Davison said small quantities of nitrate normally found in animal feeds have no bad effect but if the content is more than two per cent it is potentially deadly.

"The type of crop to plant for silage probably depends more on use of the silage than any other factor," said Dr. Donald Clanton, University of Nebraska animal scientist stationed at North Platte.

"There appears to be very little justification for growing sorghum in place of corn on irrigated land when silage production is the motive," said Dr. Clanton.

At the North Platte Station gain-per-acre figures are among the factors included in silage experiments.

Dr. Walter Woods, University of Nebraska animal nutritionist, said the effectiveness of urea in cattle rations is influenced by several factors and the economy of its use depends on the basic ration, its purpose and its price in comparison with soybean meal.

Word of Warning

Dr. Woods said maximum efficiency from urea supplement can be obtained only if the ration is adequate in energy, minerals and vitamins.

A word of warning came from a Kansas State University quality control specialist for livestockmen who might be tempted to doctor moldy grain so livestock will eat it.

"Moldy feeds can contain poisons that can either kill livestock or damage them beyond recovery," said Dr. Robert W. Wilcox of Manhattan, Kan.

Fighter-Bomber Crash In Nevada Told; Pilots Eject

Nellis AFB, Nev. (UPI) — An F111A fighter-bomber crashed 85 miles north of here in a desert dry lake Tuesday. The two pilots ejected safely.

The plane was the second F111A to crash in less than three weeks and the 13th to crash since the flight test program began in January of 1967.

The Air Force said the swept-wing aircraft was on a routine training mission when it crashed in a snow covered region of Nevada, west of the community of Caliente.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Matters pertaining to game or hunting continue to share in the news from day to day. On a broader scale, discussion continues on the location of the State Game Commission, with many communities in the state bidding for the agency's headquarters building and operations.

And once again the annual struggle is on for and against the dove as a game bird. The dove game bird bill almost died by accident of a parliamentary maneuver but was saved at the last minute. Now it will presumably be held for public hearing by the Agriculture and Recreation Committee.

People who don't want the dove on the game bird list had better not rest on their laurels. The fact that the measure has been defeated in one session after another is no guarantee that the same thing will happen this year.

★

With introduction of the bill, notice is served that an effort will be made to pass it. Unless the opponents to the measure are well organized and make a forceful presentation at the bill's public hearing, doves could well be added to the game bird list.

That is not where they belong, of course, but that is not the point. A lot of people, mostly well meaning, think the dove should be a game bird.

To our way of thinking, they are wrong. The dove has very few of the characteristics of other game birds. Its flight is like that of a song bird, as are most of its other actions. Additionally, it makes a poor food supply because it is too small.

Some people want it on the game bird list simply as a live target. None of these reasons is sufficient to open the state for dove hunting, despite the fact that it is done in some neighboring states.

★

Other people want the dove on the song bird list for better reasons. The fact that shooting the bird would not decimate its ranks is an unimportant consideration.

The bird is associated with peace, it has many gentle characteristics and it is not needed as a game bird. The fields of Nebraska are full of many other kinds of game which the hunter can take in whatever abundance he is willing to work for.

Many who are opposed to shooting the dove take their stand as a matter of principle. They believe that it is unnecessary to kill the bird and want it kept on the song bird list for that reason.

They can see in the wanton killing of the bird an attitude toward life that they don't like. They would prefer to see the emphasis placed on preservation of the bird and its freedom to live in nature as it was born.

If the bird were needed for hunting, it would be one thing but that is not the case. Without any need for the bird, why violate the feelings of those who want the creature protected?

★

To honor such feelings is to give some recognition to the more compassionate side of human nature and it seems that the world could use plenty of this. Why not let the dove stand as symbolic of mankind's concern for life?

Such concern should be encouraged, not trampled upon for little or no reason. With more such concern, we might have less of the violence and irresponsibilty that now infest civilization.

If young people grew up with an appreciation for nature and an urge to conserve it rather than training in its destruction or disruption, they might become far better adults.

It is no more time today to make the dove a game bird than it has been in years gone by. The Legislature would be well advised once again to refuse to make a target of the dove.

LES Board Change Can Wait

Back in January in this space we wondered whether the City Charter Revision Committee would have enough time remaining to recommend well-considered amendments for the City Council to pass on for voter approval in the spring elections.

This week the charter committee received permission from the council to hire a private attorney to help prepare an amendment which would affect the Lincoln Electric System. Suggested by the City Power Advisory Board, the amendment would create a separate board to run the electric system.

According to committee member Robert Danielson, a private attorney to be paid out of the electric system fund is needed to devote full time to the charter amendment because the city legal department, which advises the committee on the legality of proposed amendments, would be unable to make a recommendation on a revision in time for the proposal to be placed on the May election ballot.

This is rather what we had in mind a couple of months ago when we asked why the charter committee had not gotten on the ball earlier.

The council must by March 17 approve all charter amendment proposals that would appear on the May ballot. It appears that at least two council members, Helen Boosalis and Bill Davidson, feel that it is now not necessary to rush this important amendment through so that it may go to the voters this spring. We agree. Rather than farm out the power board proposal to private practice, the amendment should be fashioned by the city legal department which has worked closely with the Lincoln Electric System.

Hope For Tax Reform

A windfall could be in store for the nation's low-income taxpayers, although nothing is more uncertain than tax reform. The House Ways and Means Committee is concentrating on some 17 areas of the federal income tax structure. One package before the committee would add $3.4 billion annually to the tax bill of the more affluent and deduct taxes in an equal amount from the bills of low-income persons.

A major break for low-income groups would be a 20 rather than a 10 per cent standard deduction. Also a minimum tax payment could be established for wealthy people who now have only tax-exempt income.

Additionally, consideration is being given to changing capital gains treatment, changing estate and gift taxes and setting new rules for charitable deductions and foundations. All of these last three items would tend to shift the burden of taxation at the federal level from low to high-income groups.

If the U.S. is ever going to adequately meet the social problems that face it, tax reform is inevitable. We cannot continue under a system that breeds extreme wealth on the one hand and extreme poverty on the other if we intend to make freedom and opportunity meaningful for all people.

The only way in which the deprived people of the country can come to share as they should in the wealth of the nation is through tax-financed programs of self-improvement. For those who don't like that idea, let them contemplate the drastic and violent consequences of continued refusal to help those in need.

John 'Roadblock' Rooney

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's crime clean-up campaign sooner or later will find that the No. 1 bottleneck in getting more court personnel to break the glut of criminal cases awaiting trial is right under their noses on Capitol Hill. He is the one-man czar of the federal courts — Rep. John Rooney, the irascible, irritable, dictatorial Democrat from Brooklyn.

Rooney is a problem Democratic presidents have had to deal with for years, and the Nixon forces were a little naive in not being wise to him. They are learning now, will learn more in the future.

President Nixon has asked for new federal judges, and while authorizing new federal judges is not Rooney's prerogative, appropriating money for their salaries is. But even more important, he himself, through his committee, can OK funds for clerks, prosecutors and court personnel, who actually are more needed than U.S. district judges.

For one great problem in cleaning up crime is the terrific glut of cases before the courts. This is why defendants are let out on bail and commit new crimes before they can be tried for the first crime. It's also why many prosecuting attorneys make deals with defendants who face two or more charges to let them plead guilty to the least charge, thus get off with a lighter sentence.

A guilty plea obviates a court trial and helps break the court logjam. But it also makes things easier for the criminal.

The remedy is not merely more judges—though some are necessary—but more prosecutors, clerks and court personnel. This is where "Roadblock" Rooney comes in. Rooney is chairman of the subcommittee on appropriations for the Justice Department, the courts, the state department and several other key agencies. He loves to travel around the world at the taxpayers' expense, snooping on the amount of scotch used by American embassies. But he seems brazenly indifferent to the lack of personnel for law-enforcement.

When Rep. James Scheuer, Rooney's fellow Democrat for the Bronx, approached him a year ago regarding an "institute for law enforcement" to study new police methods, Rooney said no. Scheuer finally got his anti-crime institute adopted, thanks to Republican help.

For over three years the Supreme Court has been trying to get a few extra clerks. Chief Justice Warren has pointed out that the court hasn't had an increase in clerks for 20 years, yet in that period the court's work has tripled. Rooney hasn't granted a single extra clerk.

Last year Rooney's highhandedness brought Democratic opposition in his primary, but the young man who ran against him, Frederick Richmond, found himself the object of Rooney's vengeance. Suddenly his foundation was investigated. It turned out that Richmond's foundation had been doing a superb job in remodeling brownstone houses in Manhattan slums and the investigation fizzled. But the fact that it was even held indicated Rooney's power.

☆ ☆ ☆

Another indication of his power was a telephone call he made to Roger Stevens, a member of the White House staff in charge of cultural relations. Stevens had accepted an invitation to attend a money-raising cocktail party for Richmond. Rooney called to warn that if Stevens did attend the party, his funds for cultural activities would be cut off.

So omnipotent is the irascible congressman from Brooklyn that 14 State Department and U.S. disarmament agency officials bowed to his power and contributed to his primary campaign. This is highly unusual and possibly against the civil service law.

Yet a long list of officials dealing with Rooney, most of them dependent on him for appropriations, coughed up to get him re-elected.

If these State Department officials had not dumped their dough into Rooney's primary campaign, he might not have been around to cut their budgets any more. For his opponent came within about 1,000 votes of beating him.

This is the congressman Nixon will have to deal with in breaking the logjam in the federal courts.

Can't something be done so that a person can walk down the streets of town during a fund drive and not have three or four containers stuck in front of him in every block? Then they come to the house to collect also, and call on the telephone.

Terry For Governor

Regarding Senator Richard Proud, I wonder what his constituents think about his attempt to "muffle" Senator Carpenter. I imagine they would prefer him to spend his senatorial time in empathetic consideration of their problems, to better their community and individual lives instead of wasting his time and the time of the whole Legislature, being or trying to be a comedian.

As for Senator Carpenter, he is definitely a leader and is working hard in an almost sole effort to re-establish a moral code and climate in this state. I wish he were governor.

De Gaulle Courage

Lincoln, Neb.

During his long career, Charles de Gaulle has been described by many adjectives. Nowadays he is called vain, arrogant and senile.

But there was a time not long ago when he showed great wisdom and courage. I am referring to his decision to pull France out of Algeria. He faced the fact that the Algerians would no longer submit to foreign domination, regardless of the death and torture they had to endure. And his decision was so bitterly opposed by the army that there was open rebellion and even an attempt on De Gaulle's life by some officers.

Would that Mr. Nixon could summon the courage to pull the United States out of Vietnam.

Pueblo Inquiry

Lincoln, Neb.

Why doesn't the board of inquiry get off Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher's back. As did his own government, he signed a confession of lies to save the lives of his men and himself. The long agonizing months of mental and physical torture over there were bad enough but to come home to torment just as bad from their own people is shameful.

General Wainwright also underwent inhuman hardships, as did all prisoners of war. He surrendered Corregidor and urged commanders elsewhere in the Philippines to give up in the face of total enemy superiority.

It is doubtful that those who sit in the easy chairs of high places, telling others what to do, could practice what they preach under similar circumstances.

General Wainwright received the highest award our nation could offer. Why should Cmdr. Bucher and his men be valued less?

Many Who Care

Polk, Neb.

The Nebraska Easter Seal Child Committee who kicked off their annual drive to help crippled children and adults with a "Meet The Easter Seal Child" tea at the governor's mansion on Nebraska Day, March 1, are deeply grateful for the more than 300 persons who attended.

The fine publicity given by The Star is deeply appreciated.

It was wonderful to see the cooperation of our fine governor and his charming wife who smilingly stood in line for over two hours to greet people and shake hands with them. The committee also was impressed by the housekeeper and staff at the mansion and their willingness to help. And thanks go to the Tiemann children who pitched in to help with the dishes, to Nancy Armstrong who provided piano music, to "Miss Teenager," Susan Herman of Wilber, who helped.

It is inspiring to know there are so many people who care.

What The Odds Are On A Ripe Old Age

NEW YORK — Every once in awhile, I awake with a glowing feeling of good health, convinced I will live to be 100!

Then there are the other 364 days . . .

But all of us can live to be 100, you know. Dr. Richard Gruber, the medical director of one of the country's largest insurance agencies, said so. What he said, exactly, is "Every American has a reasonably good chance of becoming a healthy centenarian—if":

He can pass through childhood without succumbing to a vast number of unfriendly viruses and other pathogens; he can escape the teens without cracking up from tension, or via smashed car or romance; he can ease through the 30s without slipping his discs; he can survive his 40s and 50s without a coronary.

"Once you reach the age of 60, your chances are really very good for reaching 100," said Dr. Gruber. Providing:

Your lungs are not badly abused from smoking or smog; your liver isn't damaged by drinking, and your mate, job or children have not nagged you into high blood pressure, an ulcer, or an overweight problem caused by overeating as an outlet for your frustrations.

If none of these elements is present, then there is no reason on earth to doubt you can live to be 100. Except for:

"Still capricious coronaries, and unexpected problems of the bladder and brain; or some unpredictably unruly cells which may get the wild urge to propagate; or, of course, an act of God, your own carelessness, or some accidental error by doctor, nurse or hospital ministering to your health."

And there is always the off-chance you will be struck by an errant coconut while lounging under a palm in Tahiti.

See how good your chances are?

America Needs New Coalition With Japanese In Effort Toward Rebuilding Our Asian Policy

TOKYO — As traveling trouble-shooter, President Nixon should have Japan high on his tour itinerary. For this astonishing country, with its astonishing recovery from the depths of defeat and destruction, is the pivot of Asia, and any realistic American policy in this part of the world must be based on collaboration with the Japanese.

But before he can even think of coming, before Premier Eisaku Sato could risk an invitation, the President will have to take strong, decisive steps to resolve the deep divisions between the two nations. The measures he must take will not be easy, since they will go counter to powerful elements, notably the American military, bent on keeping everything just as it is.

The Japanese-American security treaty expires in 1970, and no one has forgotten that the conclusion of that treaty in 1960 brought perhaps the most furious upheaval in postwar Japan. President Eisenhower set out to visit Tokyo to give his blessing to the treaty. So riotous were the protesting mobs that he stayed in Manila while the question of his safety was weighed. Finally, after a humiliating wait of a week, he returned to Washington.

☆ ☆ ☆

The first stage obviously is to take those steps that will win over all but the extremists to acceptance of the security treaty for another term. That means at the start, Okinawa and, at a minimum, reversion of control over the Okinawan population to Japan.

Okinawa is a festering sore with, one gathers, a large segment of opinion. The resentment and concern have been accentuated by the Vietnam war. Unhappy accidents seem to conspire to undermine the good feeling toward America that has grown up since 1945.

Initially it was understood that Okinawa would not be a base for bombers attacking Vietnam. Then came the Pueblo incident and the alarm of a greatly widened war in Korea. As a security backup B-52s were sent to Okinawan bases and today those B-52s regularly bomb targets below the 17th parallel.

But, while incidents may bring a rise or fall in anti-Americanism, opinion here is rooted in a pacifism embedded in a constitution renouncing any armed force and the resort to war. The catastrophic defeat of 1945, the atomizing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki and, interestingly enough, the wise counsel of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as American proconsul after the war — all contributed to the profoundly held conviction of peace.

Under the governing party, the Liberal-Democrats, a self-defense force has reached a total strength of 275,000 — ground, air and navy. Even this force, so minuscule in contemporary terms for a nation of one hundred million, is the source of bitter political dispute.

The fact that probably less than half of one per cent of Japan's gross national product goes into defense costs is one reason for the flourishing state of Japan's economy. The industrialists are quite content that it should be so. Any suggestion from Washington that Japan's forces should be enlarged would be ill received by almost every element.

On the nuclear issue, there is a curious ambivalence. It is an open secret that nuclear weapons are stored at American bases on Okinawa. That is one source of the continuing agitation on the left, not merely to see the administration of the Okinawans in Japanese hands but to force the Americans out of a base the American military regards as vital to security in the Pacific.

Yet most Japanese are content to shelter under the American nuclear umbrella. As a practical people they are fully aware of the standoff between the two nuclear giants, and China's threat is too remote for immediate concern.

In preparing for a relatively calm acceptance of the continuation of the security treaty, some modification, some scaling down, possibly, of the American military presence in Japan proper may be essential. Twenty-five years after the end of the war, there are 35,200 Americans in Army, Navy and Air Force units. With civilian employes and dependents, it adds up to 46,000, which, with the bases they occupy in these crowded islands, is a lot.

☆ ☆ ☆

On China, Nixon has been saying the right things from the Japanese viewpoint — try to break down the barriers raised high for two decades. But change is coming so swiftly, with Italy, Canada and possibly Belgium preparing to recognize Peking, that Japan, holding off in deference to the American position, may be caught in a difficult squeeze. The dead weight of the long China tragedy hangs heavy over the decisions just ahead.

But there is a great reservoir of good will to draw on and it would be compounding the tragedy if the past were to defeat the present. The strongest first impression of the visitor is the admiration the Japanese have for most things American. They have a remarkable capacity to adapt to change. With this goes a great respect for inventiveness, modernity, skill, and productivity, and they see in America the epitome of the qualities they admire.

County's Selection Of Mover Blasted

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Commissioners Tuesday were charged with selecting a mover on the basis of friendship and with giving the mover a "blank check" for his fees.

Rod Dudley of Dudley Moving and Storage told the board that it was a known fact that Commissioner Kenneth Bourne and Robert Carter of Sullivan Transfer and Storage are "life-long" friends.

He said it was a matter of "playing buddy-buddy and that's why Sullivan got the business."

Bourne said the decision was not his alone, but that the three commissioners make decisions jointly.

When asked if he weren't in charge of the moving, Bourne said it was not his full responsibility, adding, that he and William Grossman had been in full charge since Commissioner Ralph Harlan had been in the hospital recovering from injuries suffered in an accident.

Dudley charged that the county did not take bids on the moving and that his firm had quoted a rate less than what the county is paying.

"I feel the taxpayer is paying more for the move than necessary," Dudley said.

Bourne said the county did not take bids but had visited about prices with various movers in town.

Bourne said that all hourly rates for trucks were $5, while the quoted prices for man-hours were: Star Van and Storage, $5; Dudley Moving and Storage, $4.75; Ford Van Lines, $5.50, and Sullivan, $5.

He and Grossman said that Sullivan was the only firm large enough to handle the county move. They said it would have been necessary to have had a combination of the three movers to handle the move if the other movers had been selected.

Grossman said such a combination of companies could resul in liability problems since it would be difresponsibility in case of property damage or loss.

Dudley charged the county with not knowing how much it already owes Sullivan for the move since it does not know how many man-hours and truck-hours have been used.

"I think you have an obligation to the taxpayers," he said, adding that he was certain he wouldn't get any of the county moving business anyway, but fel that the taxpayers should not be paying more than necessary.

Bourne asked Dudley if he were a union mover, to which Dudley replied," It's none of your damned business whether I'm union or not."

Bourne indicated that the county had been warned that it could get into trouble if a union mover didn't handle the moving.

"Everybody knows the city put a bid out and it's not worried about the firms being union," Dudley said.

The City of Lincoln awarded a contract on a combination bid of Dudley, Star Van and Ford Van Lines.

The three non-union movers submitted a low bid of $4.25 per hundred weight. The only other bidder was Sullivan Transfer with a bid of $4.90 per hundred weight.

"I didn't think an outfit like the County Commissioners could be intimidated by unions," Dudley said.

Also appearing before the board was Jack Andrews of Star Van who asked the board to consider his firm in its decision for a mover for moving the remaining county offices.

Car-Pedestrian Accident Injures Lincoln Girl, 6

A six-year-old Lincoln girl was reported in fair condition at Lincoln General Hospital after being struck by a car shortly after noon Tuesday.

The girl, Shelly R. Sieck of 3136 Q St., was struck by a car driven by Sandra L. Juricek, 26, of 3921 Madison, police said.

Officers said the vehicle was southbound when the accident occurred at 33rd and R Sts.

103 Sertomans Will Be Honored For $100 Pledges

The executive committee of Cedars Home for Children will honor 103 Sertoma members Thursday for their pledges of $100 or more to the Cedars Home Building Fund campaign.

Their total contributions amounted to $20,161, and in addition, they solicited funds from friends of Cedars Home in the amount of $40,038.

Pledges of $100 or more qualify them as members of the Cedars Century Club and they will receive special awards.

Hearing On Proposed Hike In Lincoln Bus Fare Slated

The State Railway Commission will hold a public hearing Friday on the request by Lincoln City Lines to increase bus fares.

The hearing will be held in the commission's hearing room at the Railway Commission office, 1342 M St.

The City of Lincoln filed a protest with the commission on Feb. 7 regarding the proposed rate increase.

The bus line is seeking a 25-cent rate within the city for all riders 12 years and older. The rate eliminates the 10-cent charge for zone transfers but increases the basic 20-cent fare by five cents.

The bus firm has contended the fare increase is necessary because of increased operating costs and the dwindling number of persons using the bus service.

W. Barnett Schenck, an attorney-examiner with the commission, said the bus lines must justify the need for a rate increase.

Richard Woods, assistant city attorney, said the city contends that the rate increase is not justified.

"The city wants strict proof the new rates are necessary should the company be granted the fare hike," Woods said in filing the protest last month.

He said the city believes the bus firm is getting a fair rate of return on its present rate structure.

Legislature Begins Scrutiny Of Conflict-Of-Interest Bill

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Tuesday began word-by-word examination of landmark legislation which would regulate conflict-of-interest within state government and public power districts.

Discussion over the form of disclosure of financial interests will continue when debate on the bill, LB75, resumes Wednesday.

In its amended form, the bill provides for limited disclosure in general terms by senators, constitutional officers, members of state boards and commissions, public power officers and employes who are salaried at more than $6,000 a year.

As an alternative method of disclosure, such officers or employes could submit a copy of their federal income tax return each year along with a limited list of major investments.

Sen. Ramey Whitney of Chappell asked that stockin national corporations, government bonds and mutual funds be exempted from the disclosure provision, but Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff strenuously objected.

If that exemption is written into the bill, Carpenter vowed, he will oppose its enactment.

Sen. Rick Budd of Nebraska City, chief sponsor of the legislation, said he would attempt to secure agreement on the disclosure sections before debate resumes.

One Change

The Legislature made only one major change in the bill during Tuesday's opening debate.

On a vote of 23-21, lawmakers altered the composition of the Conflicts-of-Interest Committee, which would regulate the legislative branch of government, to assure geographical representation on the committee for all senators.

The proposed five-member unit was expanded to seven members, including one senator from each of the four old congressional districts, two lay members and a constitutional officer.

The bill originally proposed that three senators sit on the five-member committee, but that they be chosen at-large by the Legislature.

Board of Ethics

LB75 also creates a Board of Ethics to govern the executive branch of state government, and directs administrative units of government to adopt their own code of ethics. A legislative code is written into the bill.

Watching the opening round of discussion were members of the League of Women Voters, who filled the legislative chamber balconies.

Carpenter said all financial holdings should be disclosed so other senators can determine why a lawmaker supports or opposes specific legislation.

The amount of stock holdings could, for instance, provide a clue as to how a senator will react to proposed taxation of intangible property, he noted.

Attachment To Elm As State Tree Apparently Not Dead In Nebraska

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

The American elm may be dying under the ravages of Dutch elm disease, but Nebraska's attachment to the specimen as the state tree apparently is far from dead.

A resolution which would have overturned a legislative decision 32 years ago, making the American elm the state tree, failed to win lawmaker approval Tuesday.

At issue was Resolution 20, introduced Friday by Sens. George Syas of Omaha and Roland A. Luedtke of Lincoln, repealing a resolution adopted Feb. 15, 1937, designating the American elm as the state tree.

The resolution received a 20-20 tie vote, and Lt. Gov. John E. Everroad, as presiding officer, cast a tie-breaking vote against the resolution. Everroad said he realized the resolution had failed even without his vote because 25 affirmative votes are needed for adoption of a resolution, but said he wanted to vote nonetheless.

Cottonwood Bill

A bill currently pending in the Legislature would designate the cottonwood as the state tree.

If the cottonwood bill is approved, Nebraska apparently would have two state trees — one as the result of the 32-year-old legislative resolution, and the other as the result of a 1969 law.

Sen. Syas suggested that in a few years there may be no more American elms on the Landscape "and if we're going to have a state tree it should no longer be the American elm."

Syas indicated he opposes naming any state tree, which led Sen. Lester Harsh of McCook to suggest that because Syas lives "in air conditioned organized rubble" instead of out in the country, he may not properly esteem the value of the tree, "which meant so much to the pioneer out there in a sod hut."

In other action on resolutions, lawmakers agreed to defer for a week consideration of Omaha Sen. Richard F. Proud's Resolution 22, protesting the location of Job Corps centers in the downtown heart of Omaha or any other city.

Proud asked the delay. He said he introduced the resolution for the Omaha Chamber of Commerce but has been "getting some flak" on the subject.

In a related development, State Technical Assistance Director Samuel J. Cornelius made public a letter he has written to Omaha business and civic leaders.

Letter Quoted

"While your concern and interest for the downtown business district in Omaha is significant, what is now lacking is the same interest and concern for the more than 800 women Job Corps enrollees," Cornelius wrote.

"With the same vigor and enthusiasm as has been displayed thus far, it would be noteworthy if all of your units formed a site committee to suggest an alternate location for these deserving young Americans."

The letters were addressed to Mayor A. V. Sorensen, City Council President Fred Jacobberger, County Board Chairman George Buglewicz, President George Wruck of Associated Retailers of Omaha, and President J. D. Anderson of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce.

Sunday Sales Ban Measure Is Withdrawn

State Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa Tuesday withdrew his bill to outlaw sales of certain consumer items on Sundays and holidays.

Nore said he withdrew the bill because he thought it would probably be unconstitutional if enacted into law and that it would be "belaboring an already overworked Legislature."

The bill would have restricted the sale of "musical instruments, records, phonographs and tape recorders, radios and televisions, jewelry, clocks and watches, furs, and appliances," among other items.

Nore said many foreign corporations doing business in Nebraska are guilty of "unethical business practices" by remaining open on Sundays and holidays.

"I feel Sunday is a day of rest and a day of worship," he said. "I don't think it should be a usual business day."

Nore said at the time he introduced the bill he didn't think it would be unconstitutional because Minnesota had a similar law. However, he said, the Minnesota law was later ruled unconstitutional.

"I think public opinion can probably take care of this problem more effectively than a statute that would be almost impossible to enforce," he said.

Oil, Gas Rights Bids Told

High bids totaling $18,528 were received by the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds Tuesday for leases to oil and gas rights on 18 sections of land located in western Nebraska.

The bids cover leasing of the rights for one year. After the first year the leases are renewable for $320 a section.

Thirteen of the sections involved are located in Dawes County, two in Box Butte County, two in Lincoln County and one in Chase County.

A lease for one of the Dawes County sections went to W. C. McBride of St. Louis for $9.75 an acre, or a total of $6,240.

Rights to the other 12 sections in Dawes County were leased for bids ranging from $2 an acre to 90 cents an acre.

Echo Oil Corporation of Casper, Wyo. bought eight other leases in Dawes County. Robert Rutledge of Denver leased three Dawes County sections, with the other one going to Ronald DeBord of Lincoln.

Rutledge also purchased the two sections up for lease in Box Butte County for $800 per section.

Cambrian Corporation of McCook leased the rights to the section in Chase County for 50 cents an acre and Apache Corporation of Tulsa, Okla. leased the two Lincoln County sections for 50 cents an acre.

Measure Allowing Counties To Consolidate Offices OK'd

A bill setting out procedures whereby two or more adjoining counties may consolidate one or more county or township offices was one of three passed on final reading in the Legislature Tuesday.

Sen. Henry F. Pedersen Jr. of Omaha sponsored the consolidation measure, LB156. It was passed 45-1 with Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa casting the opposition vote.

The bills passed (E-emergency clause):

LB55 (Carpenter) — Providing that in first class cities, only the elected officers need to be qualified electors of the city. (E). 41-0.

LB156 (Pedersen) — Authorizing two or more adjoining counties to consolidate one or more county or township offices. 45-1.

LB189 (Johnson, Hasebroock) — Eliminating fixed dates in June and October on which county boards have been required to meet. 45-1.

Legislative Bills Introduced

Bills introduced in the Legislature Tuesday:

LB1306 (Government Committee) — Establishing minimum requirements for construction of tank trucks hauling anhydrous ammonia.

Pilot Completed

Hollywood (UPI) — Twentieth Century-Fox Television has completed the pilot of a new adventure television series, "Joaquin Murieta," starring Ricardo Montalban in the title role.

Safety Rules For Tankers Proposed

A bill was introduced in the Nebraska Legislature to set safety requirements for the construction of tank vehicles that haul anhydrous ammonia over public highways.

It was the only bill introduced. It is sponsored by the Unicameral's Government and Military Affairs Committee.

Under the proposal, no tank vehicle could carry anhydrous ammonia on the highways unless it was strong enough to withstand 265 pounds per square inch of pressure.

Tankers built to this specification would be identified by an identification plate attached to its right front corner.

In addition, any owner or operator found guilty of violating the safety requirements would be subject to a $500 fine for each day of offense.

So far, there have been 1,306 bills introduced in the Legislature this session.

Ban On Glue Sniffing Held For Amendment

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

A bill that would outlaw the sniffing of glue and restrict sales of such products capable of producing an intoxicated condition was held for amendments Tuesday by the Legislature's Judiciary Committee.

Law enforcement officers testified in favor of LB222, principally introduced by Sen. Roland Luedtke of Lincoln. There was no opposition.

"Some cities have glue-sniffing ordinances," Mrs. Jan Gradwohl of the Lancaster County Attorney's office told the committee, "but it's becoming both a social and health problem so as to indicate the need for state legislation."

Lt. Gail Gade of the Lincoln Police Juvenile Division said 18 glue-sniffing cases were recorded in 1967, 48 in 1968 and "twice that many are expected in 1969."

"Some glue-sniffing victims have ended up in the state hospital," he said.

Amendments requiring retailers to keep a registry of the sale of such products and also prohibiting persons from inducing others to violate the proposed law were presented to the committee, but were held by the committee for action later.

At the request of Sen. Terry Carpenter, the committee killed LB16, which prohibited glue-sniffing and proposed to regulate sales.

He indicated desirable provisions of this bill were incorporated into the Luedtke measure.

In other action, the committee killed by a 6-1 vote a bill that would permit courts to waive the filing fee in cases filed by indigent persons.

The measure, LB513, introduced by Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha, was supported by the Omaha Legal Aid Bureau.

Education Committee

The Legislature's Education Committee Tuesday held a bill which would provide state aid to tax-supported vocational schools.

Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway introduced the bill, LB498. It was unopposed at a public hearing held by the committee.

Under the bill, the schools would receive $7.50 for each credit hour enrolled by students at the school.

Also held without action was LB632, which would provide for state appropriations to schools to make up for any loss of funds if the federal government cuts back on its program of assistance for military dependents.

The measure was introduced by Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion on behalf of the Bellevue and Papillion school districts.

Both school districts receive federal "impacted areas" assistance for children of Offutt Air Force Base personnel.

Wisconsin Pair Held After Drug Found In Auto

Kimball (UPI) — Two young men from Madison Wis., were being held for investigation here after an officer found marijuana inside their car.

State Trooper Richard Larsen of Kimball made the arrest after stopping the car for a muffler violation. One of the men is 28 and the other 25. No charges were filed immediately.

The State Patrol's division of drug control is conducting the investigation.

The arrest was made nine miles west of here on U.S. 30.

Filipi Directed To Provide 'Realistic' Salary Schedule

The Legislature's Budget Committee Tuesday directed State Sanitation Engineer T. A. Filipi to provide a salary schedule he thinks is needed to attract and retain qualified engineers.

To limit salary increases for engineers to 5% per year — as Gov. Norbert Tiemann instructed all agencies in budget preparations for personnel — is "unrealistic," Filipi said.

"We can't hire people and keep them on these terms," he said. Filipi said his division now has eight or ten vacancies.

State Health Director Dr. Lynn Thompson said he learned that engineers working for the federal government are earning about $200 more a month than what Nebraska pays.

"It gets back to the old problem; you can't hire a genius on a moron's salary," Dr. Thompson said.

Salaries took up a good deal of the discussion as the Budget Committee began to review the Health Department's budget for the coming biennium.

The department has requested $6.1 million from the general fund and a total operating budget of $10.2 million. Gov. Tiemann has recommended a $3.9 million general fund appropriation.

Filipi said the citizenry is putting "pressure" on his Environmental Health Services Division to inspect more frequently solid waste disposal facilities and feedlots.

Sen. Elvin Adamson of Valentine asked Filipi if counties could assume some of the division's responsibilities, such as taking water samples and inspecting feedlots.

Filipi replied that would be impossible unless the counties expand their programs.

Dr. Thompson, who will depart state government on or before June 1, also urged the committee to approve a proposal to establish a central statistics-gathering operation.

Proposed Tax Exemption Change Is Held

Representatives of hospitals, cities and counties appeared before the Legislature's Revenue Committee Tuesday to support a bill exempting them from payment of sales taxes on purchases of less than $100.

The committee deferred action on the measure, LB1046, sponsored by Sen. Thomas C. Kennedy of Newman Grove.

Written into Nebraska's sales-income tax law when it was enacted two years ago was a sales tax exemption on purchases for religious, nonprofit charitable, educational or child placement organizations, hospitals and orphanages. However, these agencies and organizations were required to pay sales tax on purchases of $100 or less, while being allowed afterwards to claim a refund of such taxes paid.

In the case of cities and counties, sales tax exemption was granted only on purchases exceeding $100.

LB1046 would have the effect of exempting from sales tax all purchases, regardless of amount, by these favored organizations or governmental subdivisions.

Sen. Kennedy said the present provisions amount to a "nuisance tax" requiring "quite a little bookwork."

Kenneth Bowen of the League of Nebraska Municipalities said present law penalizes small cities which do not always find it convenient to buy in quantities making a $100 order. And James Moylan of Omaha, speaking for the Nebraska County Officials Association, said some counties wind up stockpiling supplies simply from having made a point of raising purchase orders to $100 or more.

Three Sought For Forgery Of $5,000 In Savings Bonds

Lincoln Police said Tuesday they were searching for a young woman suspected of forging signatures in order to cash about $5,000 worth of Series E savings bonds at two local banks.

Inspector Robert Sawdon said the woman, described by bank employes as 22 to 25 years old and "very attractive," was accompanied by two men.

The trio arrived in Lincoln last week, and the woman opened small savings accounts Friday at the Citizen's State Bank and the First National Bank, officials said.

Monday the woman cashed about $2,500 worth of bonds at each of the banks.

Inspector Sawdon said it is believed the bonds were stolen during residence burglaries in Kansas City.

Possible identification of the two men, has been made by the Secret Service, the inspector said, but the girl remained unidentified late Tuesday.

Inspector Sawdon said the three arrived in Lincoln by plane, rented a car and then left by plane after the bonds were cashed.

When the crime was reported, police found that the three had plane reservations from Lincoln to Kansas City, but the suspects took an earlier filght and arrived in Kansas City before surveillance began, police said.

The Words Of Fourth Grade Critics

Who knows? Some day a very famous drama critic may say that he (or she) did his first review back in February, 1969 — and that he remembers it well. He may add that the play was "Jack and the Giant," and that it was presented as the Lincoln Junior League's annual Children's Theater production. If the gentleman — or lady — states that he or she was in the fourth grade at Sheridan School at the time, you may be reading that first great review at this very moment. His memories of Sheridan School, Lincoln Neb. doubtless will include his teacher, Mrs. Dolores Painter, and a cute student teacher, Carol Clark.

Children, of course, voice their honest opinions. They have not reached the age of subtleties, and diplomacy is not yet in their vocabulary. We are presenting the reviews as they were written — even to the spelling — because they are delightful just as they are.

On Friday, Feb. 28, 1969 at about 9:30 a.m. in the Stuart Theater the 3RD and 4TH grades from many schools went to see "Jack and the Giant." I thought it was little to babyish for the 4TH and 3RD grades. Preschoolers would like it very much.

The scenery was bright and cheerful, however I would have changed the scenery when Jack went to the village. They were still showing Jack's house and a little yard. The beanstalk was very good. It looked real. It looked as if it were growing.

I think the way they made the Giant was clever, however in the book he is one of the main parts. In the play he was on for lests than five minuets. Jack was talking very loud so you could not hear The Giant. Also you couldn't see him. He was just a shadow.

They had two clowns who talked while they changed scenery. They did not make any sense. Sad, a clown, was always crying It runed the play. Also the clowns and Jack were always asked questions. They wanted us to answer. The ones who did took awhile to quiet down. This wasted time.

The costumes were bright and colorful. They fit the actresses.

The actors were good. They did not forget the lines. Although sometimes I could not hear them.

The play was good and bad.

LAURA BURTON

On Friday February 28, 1969 a very new and exciting play took place in the Stuart Theatre, called "Jack and the Giant." I think that the scenery was very good because it looked very real. It had life to it. The acting fit in very well with the scenery. I think they picked out very good actors and very good costumes too. They picked out a very good script I think. I also thought the way they made the Giant was very clever. I truly think this was the best play Lincoln has had in a long time.

JIM DRULINER

I liked the costumes very much I liked the lederhosen and the bright shirts very much together. On the shirts, I thought the sleves were nice, they were so loose and fluffy!.! I thought the costumes and make-up were very good on the old man who tried to cheat Jack. The costumes were terrific.

The play was a very good one. Every one knew their lines perfectly. One thing I was wondering about one thing. In the book Jack is in the castle much longer than in the play. Otherwise it was one of the best plays I have ever seen.

The scenery was beautiful!.! I thought the bean stalk was clever!.! At first I couldn't amagine that the woman who played Jack would be able to climb it.

It was a wonderful play. I liked the way the acters talked with the audience.

MARY HARVEY

I went to the play "Jack and the Giant" February 28, 1969, in the morning. There were parts that I liked and parts I didn't like.

I especially liked the part where Jack tried to sell his cow to the villagers. This scene showed the villagers in bright clothing, they danced aroud and looked very happy. The play looked very real. The scenery was very bright and colorful. The Giant was very cleverly done. All the parts were acted by women. Some of the women were supposed to look like men and did. There was wonderful music, and it realy fit the play. I sat on the balcony and I could hear the people very clearly.

I disliked the Clowns I think they were not very funny. I don't think Jack, his Mother, the clowns, and the bean Man should have keep asking the audience to answer a question. Other than that the play was very good.

GEORGIA BAYLOR

On February 28, 1969 we saw the play "Jack and the Giant." I reely throught the scenry was very good it made me feel like I was part of it. I thought they had very good lines but they changed the story a lot. The actors and actresses were very good and wore colorful cloths. We could hear very well and we were sitting in the balcony. It was very fantastic how they made the bean stalk but the giant was'nt big enough but others wise it was a pretty good play.

EDDY THOMPSON

I think the play was very well put on. The actresses were very good and I could hear them. Jack looked like a real boy. During the play he did not seem like he was played by a lady.

I think the scnery could have been a little better because Jack would not go out the door, he would go through the wall insted of going around. Other than that it was all right.

I did not care for the clowns. The reson I say this is, most of time they were arguing. I also did not care for them always asking the audience things. Thanks again for the play.

ANN SAWYER

The play was very good I thought, there was only one part I did not like, that was the clowns! I liked their clothes (or rags, Ha) but not the way did their part.

I liked the scenery especially because it looked real (some was real). In this part there was something wrong Jack hardly ever used the door he went right through the wall.

It was clever how they did the giant but he was one of the leading characters in the book and not in the play

Since the play had all women for characters and parts for men the women did a very good job of convincing me that they were supose to play the part of men or boys.

They talked loud enough to hear and the scenery was big enough to see

Here is a little poem I wrote about the play

The play was good
A funny thing they didn't wear hoods
If I only knew
How long it took to take
To learn their lines
THE PLAY SURE WAS FINE!

Winning Queens Are Good Losers!

Monday night was the night of "reckoning" for the members of Lincoln TOPS Clubs who met at Gateway Auditorium to total up their subtractions—of pounds, that is—for the year.

As you no doubt know, TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) are organized into small groups of friends, all of whom are under their personal physician's orders to lose weight and who give each other necessary encouragement when the will power begins to weaken.

Representing the 15 clubs in Lincoln were their selected "queens"—their top weight losers for the year—who competed for the title of City Queen and Teen-Age Queen. Both will represent the city at the state-wide TOPS Recognition Day at Pershing Auditorium, April 11 and 12, in competition for State Queen.

Named Lincoln Queen was Mrs. Lillian Schoenfeld (pictured at left foreground), a member of Tuff On Pounds Club, who has lost 88¾ pounds. Lincoln's Teen-Age Queen is Miss Vicki Schmidt of Sweet Skippers Club, who has lost 59½ pounds.

The queens, their clubs and weight loss, are (front row, from the left) Mrs. Darwin Hoover, Goal Seekers, 50½; Mrs. John Delisi, Too Wide To Hide, 33; Mrs. Charles Cummings, Inches A-Weigh, 33; Mrs. Evelyn Bayless, Tailored Tops, 34; Mrs. Ray Kapke and Mrs. Fay Kapke, Never Manana, both 43½; Mrs. Steve Voss, Snack Stoppers, 18; and Mrs. James Graff, Skinny Minis, 19½.

The back row includes Mrs. Bob Carmack, Pep Tops, 21; Mrs. Ray Girmus, Sweet Skippers, 21¼; Mrs. Dale Hedrick, Morning Slenderettes, 33; Mrs. Emil Hynek, Morning Slim Janes, 36½; Mrs. Isabelle Swenson, Nener Say Never, 64; Miss Jo Ann York, Scale Hoppers, 40; and Miss Schmidt.

IN suburbia

Even if we didn't have a calendar, we could easily tell that March and, hopefully, spring had arrived. How? Simple. The residents in suburbia have shifted their social schedules from winter high to spring and summer overdrive without even blinking an eye.

And so, on with the news. Southbrook Summit residents Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Smith and children, Rhonda and Ronnie, weren't about to wait for the arrival of March to help Mr. Smith's father, Surcy Smith, celebrate his 62nd birthday on Friday, Feb. 28. That evening the celebrant and Mrs. Smith entertained at a dinner party at their home in Auburn.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Smith and children, their dinner guests included Mr. and Mrs. Smith's daughter, Kathy; their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith of Johnson; their son, Dennis Smith of Omaha; and Miss Cathy Taylor of Omaha.

Celebrating Girl Scout Week isn't usually a well-observed family holiday time, but it certainly won't be slighted in the Southbrook Summit home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Tyrrell. On Wednesday evening, March 13, Mr. and Mrs. Tyrrell's nine-year-old daughter, Teresa, will entertain her father at her Junior Girl Scout Troop's annual father-daughter banquet. Although the dinner is a fathers' and daughters' affair, Mrs. Tyrrell will be included because she is one of the Troop's leaders.

Causing considerable excitement at the Eastborough home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Lantry is the newest addition to their family, young Brent Karl, who made his debut on Sunday, Feb. 23. Welcoming Brent into the family was his older brother, sixteen-month-old Bruce and sending best wishes were his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Charlotte Lowenstein of Schwann, Germany and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lantry of Medford, N.J.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Campbell and children, Jeri and Hunter entertained their Maple Village area neighbors at an evening coffee in honor of Mr. Campbell's birthday anniversary.

Friday the family will travel to their former home city of Brookings, S. D., for a business and pleasure trip. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell are especially eager to see friends and former neighbors whom they have temporarily abandoned while Mr. Campbell who is on leave of absence from South Dakota State University completes his studies at the University of Nebraska.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Dble	Redble	1 ♠
4 ♥	4 ♠	5 ♥

Opening lead — king of spades.

This deal occurred in a team of four match. At the first table, South became declarer at four hearts and easily made five after West cashed the K-A of spades and shifted to the ace of clubs.

But at the second table, South got to five hearts on the bidding shown and went down one when East-West cooperated perfectly to beat the contract one trick.

West led the king of spades, on which East signaled with the queen. This play guaranteed the jack, in line with a universally accepted convention that goes back to the days of whist.

Had West continued with the ace of spades, the contract would have become unbeatable. South would have been able to ruff three diamonds in dummy, whatever West played next.

But West, aware that East had the jack, led a low spade at trick two which East won with the ten. East knew from the bidding that South had no more spades and that it would therefore be useless to continue the suit.

He likewise knew that South had the ace of diamonds, since West would surely have cashed the ace at trick two if he had it. East was also aware that if South had a club loser, he would eventually have to lose it to West's ace.

Since no advantage could possibly accrue from leading a spade, a diamond or a club at trick three, East, by the process of elimination, found the proper return of a trump.

As a result, South had to go down one. He could ruff only two diamonds in dummy and eventually lost a diamond trick to West.

The convention of signaling with the queen to show the jack, when partner has led the king from A-K, is used not only to represent the combined solidity of the suit, but also to encourage the underlead of the ace when the circumstances call for it.

Former Kansas Governor Sees Need For Annual Unicam Sessions

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Former Kansas governor John Anderson Jr. recommended in Lincoln Tuesday that sessions of the Nebraska Legislature be held annually and that pay for solons be increased.

Anderson, president of the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures, said that the nation is "entirely different" from the time when biennial sessions of state legislatures were established.

"A myriad of problems arising from the congestion of people" can only be solved through the governmental representatives of the people and should not be held for consideration once every two years, he contended.

Not Out Of Line

Although Nebraska recently doubled the salary for state senators to $400 per month, Anderson said it would "not be out of line to double it again."

The Committee on Economic Development has recommended that all state legislaors be paid $15,000 annually, he noted. The median pay for solons is $8,900, although annual rates range from $200 in New Hampshire to $42,000 in California.

Whatever the rate is, it should not be set by constitutional amendment, but by state statute, Anderson emphasized.

Legislation that would carry out both of Anderson's recommendations currently is pending in the Unicameral.

Urges Reforms

Anderson, addressing state senators and members of the Nebraska League of Women Voters, called for reforms in what he termed "outmoded state constitutions and archaic legislative procedures" in order to improve state government.

In between state legislative sessions, citizens have had to make their demands for public services at the federal level, he pointed out. "Yet people don't want a centralized government out of Washington.

"In addition, citizens won't allow their state government to grow to offset the growth in the federal government."

According to the former Kansas governor, "Nebraska is in a better position than other states to move to provide facilities and needs of individual legislators."

Favors Bicameral

Although he noted that "Nebraska has traditionally been the leader in governmental reform" since it the state established a one-house legislature, Anderson said he preferred the bicameral system.

A two-house governing body offers "more of a check to protect against abuses that grow out of mass public hysteria," he claimed.

Anderson said there is always a "great need for a workable and cooperative relationship between the legislative and executive branch and to strengthen both if good government is to be provided."

Backs Appointments

He told the group that besides the governor and lieutenant governor, the attorney general is the only other person in the executive branch who ought to remain an elected official. All others should be appointed so that certain qualifications could be required by the Legislature and so that the governor would have a more workable cabinet system.

People expect that a governor should have the authority to run the state administration. But that is not the case when many of the other state officials also are elected, he said.

The legislative day program for the League included a coffee at the Governor's Mansion, attendance at the Unicameral session and committee hearings.

Bids Opened On 2 Major Doane Jobs

Bids were opened Tuesday on two major construction projects at Doane College but low bidders won't be announced for a few days, according to Merle Jones of Beatrice, chairman of the Doane College Board of Trustees.

He said, bids were "extremely competitive" which accounts for the delay in announcing the low bidders.

Jones said the loss of Merrill Hall by fire last week will not affect the present capital program.

Jones said, "Plans are being made to determine as quickly as possible what will be built at the Merrill Hall site.

While no decision was reached with respect to the type of structure that will be built, we can assure all our students and alums that the structure will include a great deal of symbolism, of what Merrill has been and what Merrill has meant in nearly a century of history.

In one way or another Merrill will ring again," Jones said.

Legislators On ETV

Two Nebraska legislators, Mrs. Ellen E. Craft of North Platte and Miss Florence B. Reynolds of Omaha, will be on Nebraska Educational Television Network's, "Your Unicameral." The program will be aired at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and at 10 p.m. Friday.

Food Handlers Ask 30% Wage Increase

Food Service employes of the Lincoln Public Schools have requested a 34-41% increase in the basic salaries for lunchroom managers and nearly a 30% increase in the basic salary for all other lunchroom workers.

The Lunchroom Workers Association presented 10 requests for pay increases and other benefits and asked for a hearing before the Board of Education in a letter to school board members.

The other non-certificated personnel — clerical, operation and maintenance employes — have not yet presented salary recommendations to the school board. The board is inthe process of negotiating teacher contract provisions for the 1969-70 year.

A $1 per hour increase for all lunchroom managers was requested for next year. The basic salaries for managers ranged from $1.90 for senior high managers down to $1.45 for assistant managers.

A 50-cent per hour increase was requested for all other lunchroom workers. Their starting wage was raised to $1.30 per hour last Feb. 1 to meet federal minimum wage requirements.

Among the other requests of the lunchroom workers were two holidays per year with pay, a $50 clothes allowance, free health insurance, severance pay after five years of service of 25% of an employe's unused sick leave, early retirement without penalty for non-continuous service, a prorated retirement after 10 years of service and the addition of two work weeks both before and after the school year for managers.

Operation and maintenance employes, who have received a percentage of the prevailing labor union scales, have not agreed on wage proposals because all of the trades unions have not completed negotiating, according to supervisor Rudy Bauer.

Carpenters, electricians, painters and plumbers are receiving 75% this year of the prevailing trade union scales while other employes, including custodians, are receiving 70-74% of the prevailing union scales. Supervisors and building superintendents receive additional compensation.

WALLY VESTECKA

W. Vestecka Enters Race For Council

Wally Vestecka, 33, of 2725 So. 41st, Tuesday filed as a candidate for City Council in the April primary election.

Vestecka, co-owner of Vestecka-Merritt Const. Co., said he is interested in "keeping Lincoln moving."

"At the present the city is on the threshold of the greatest expansion ever," Vestecka said.

He said this expansion should be encouraged in every way possible.

"Instead of worrying about the problems this expansion will create, I believe the city should solve the problems as they arise," he said.

A former realtor, he is a 1958 graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration.

Joyce Seeks Re-Election To Authority

Richard Joyce of 1620 Skyline Drive filed Tuesday for re-election to the Lincoln Airport Authority.

Joyce was appointed to the authority in November 1964, by former Mayor Dean Petersen to serve an unexpired term and was elected to the Airport Authority for a four-year term in 1965.

He is the second candidate to file for the authority.

RICHARD JOYCE

Seeking Re-Election

Joyce, a Lincoln businessman and private pilot, served as chairman of the authority during 1968.

He is president of Henkle and Joyce Hardware Co., an officer of the Pacific Gun Sights and Western Gun and Supply Co. and a member of the board of directors of the First National Bank.

He has also been active in the YMCA, Lincoln Country Club, Veterans Service Administration, Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, Lancaster County Red Cross, Lincoln General Hospital Foundation and Community Chest.

Ralph Reed Circulating Petitions To Put Name On City Council Ballot

Petitions are being circulated to place the name of Ralph L. Reed, 50, of 3021 Stratford Ave. on the spring primary ballot for City Council.

Reed said he is interested in having evening council meetings so that more people could attend and participate in the business of the city.

"I would also like to see more downtown parking," Reed said.

He said he believes the city should work to attract more industry and to keep state agencies' headquartered here.

A lifelong resident of Lincoln, he is state chairman of CROP (Christian Rural Overseas Program).

Reed is also active in civic and church activities.

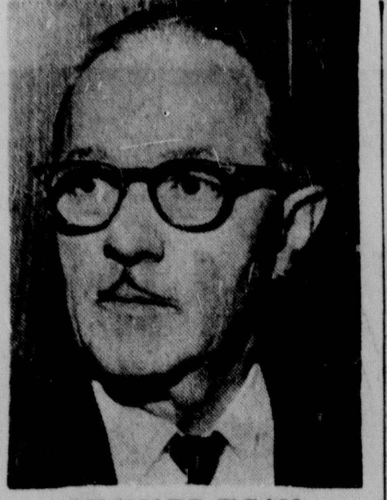
He has agricultural and business interests involving farms in Lancaster and Perkins Counties and in South Dakota.

Kitchen Opposes Authority Buying Old Base Housing

A candidate for the City Council said Tuesday he opposes the purchase of the air base housing area by the Lincoln Housing Authority.

Charles Kitchen said he would prefer having the housing area under the ownership of private interests.

Kitchen said his comment stems from a tour he made Tuesday of the housing area and discussions with various city and school officials.



LEONARD EGAN

Leonard Egan Eyeing City Council Seat

A self-employed Lincoln businessman filed Tuesday as a candidate for the City Council.

Leonard Egan, 56, of 2101 Bradfield Drive said he is running because of his interest in the continuous growth of the metropolitan community.

"I want to contribute my efforts to the city making progress," Egan said.

Owner of an insurance firm, he said he would work toward maintaining a businesslike approach to the operation of government, especially in the areas of traffic safety, zoning, and housing.

Egan is the past president of the Lincoln Association of Life Underwriters and is also a member of the American Legion.

He has been a resident of the city for 35 years.

Hruska To Speak

U.S. Sen. Roman Hruska will speak Thursday night at the annual convention of the Nebraska Sand-Gravel and Ready-Mix Concrete Association. About 200 to 250 delegates are expected to attend the two-day convention at the Hotel Cornhusker.

Edward Lebsack Considering Bid For City Council Nomination Again

Edward W. Lebsack, 60, of 1035 So. 6th, indicated Tuesday that he is considering filing for a City Council nomination in the April 8th primary.

Lebsack, who just missed being nominated in the 1967 primary, said he has been encouraged by friends to run again. In 1967 he ran seventh in a field of 17 with six to be nominated.

He was an unsuccessful candidate for the Airport Authority in 1963 and was defeated in a bid for the State Railway Commission in 1964 and county commissioner in 1966.

A graduate of Lincoln High School, Lebsack was employed by the City of Lincoln from 1928 to 1935 and the CB&Q Railroad from 1935 to 1942. He is now associated with Lebsack Bros. tavern.

He is a veteran of World War II, a memer of the American Legion, Elks Lodge 80, Izaak Walton League, Frieden's Lutheran Church, and a charter member of the Nebraska Park and Recreation Association.

Other funds to pay for the bus have come from people contributing savings stamps, private contributions, and a grant from the Lincoln Foundation.

The Parks and Recreation Department has a total of $8,154.57 for purchasing the bus.

Ager said earlier estimates on bus costs were about $8,100.

The bus will be used for transporting Recreation Department patrons to various activities, senior citizens to activities, children between recreation centers and summer playground children to various places.

A Lincoln City Council candidate announced Tuesday he will be asking "the man on the street" what immediate actions should be taken by the council.

"The main plank in my platform is to bring city government and people into closer rapport," he said.

The sheriff's office said those still missing were Moses Little Dog, 17 and William Stands, 19, both of Rushville, and Glenn Bluebird, 30, Kyle, S.D.

The fourth escapee, Wilbur Harris 22, Magnum, Okla., was apprehended Monday in Hay Springs.

The four had been jailed on a variety of misdemeanor charges, officers said.

Institute Concerned With Crispy, Irresistible Chip

By JOAN LOOKER
Star Staff Writer

Some 80 persons from all over the country are attending a meeting this week in Lincoln to discuss methods of producing and selling potato chips.

Their goal is a crispy chip with irresistible color packaged in an attractive bag.

The meeting is the Potato Chip Institute.

Everything from rancid potato chips to water pollution is included in the series of lectures by scientists and industrialists from across the country.

A good potato chip is the result of proper growing, harvesting, storage of potatoes, use of oil in cooking and many other factors, according to Dr. Ora Smith, professor emeritus at Cornell University and director of research for Potato Chip International.

Potatoes that are low in sugar make the best chip, said Dr. Smith, who has invented a device to measure the specific gravity of a potato.

Besides rainfall, irrigation and fertilizer, the method of killing the potato vines when the harvester comes into the field is a crucial element in determining the sugar level of the product, he said.

If potatoes are stored at 40 degrees, they can never be used in the chip industry, he said. They must be kept at 50-55 degree temperatures and then stored for one week at room temperature so the sugars are oxidized or reconverted to starch.

The oil used in cooking the potatoes is heated to 375 degrees and thus is essentially sterile when it is used properly. It is ruined if it is exposed to air or water, which causes the fatty acid chains to breakdown.

Any copper connection in the pipe system might cause metal contamination. Anything affecting the oil will cause a rancid chip, Dr. Smith continued.

Packaging is another important element, both in preserving the freshness of the product and in appeal to the buyer. Red and blue have been proved to be successful colors for potato chip packages, Dr. Smith said.

Frequent plant inspections by federal and commercial scientists prevent contamination of the potato product, one of the speakers said. He noted that potato chips are subject to three types of bacteria, one of which has 1200 varieties.

Sampling is essential for the consumer and the producer, Dr. W. A. Gould of Ohio State University said. Make sampling an imaginative process for the employe by serving the chips with wine or something, he advised the industrialists.

Chip production last year amounted to 800 million pounds. Some of the plants process 12,000 pounds of potatoes an hour, one speaker noted.

Water pollution problems facing chip manufacturers are great, noted Dr. Smith, who said the industry is trying to find ways to filter out the peelings and the starch granules that are discharged as waste from the plants.

Oil involved in the making of potato chips further complicates the pollution problem, he said.

"The odor of rotten potatoes makes it essential for the potato chip manufacturer to deal with the problem no matter what the cost," Dr. Smith added.

Lincoln High Now 'Very Peaceful'

The atmosphere at Lincoln High School was calm Tuesday after weekend racial tension had prompted school officials to hire policemen to patrol the corridors Monday.

The situation was "very peaceful and tranquil" at the school Tuesday, reported principal William Bogar.

No uniformed policemen were in the school Tuesday as the result of a student Human Relations Council meeting in which students had assured authorities they could keep the peace themselves if police were pulled out.

A series of minor fights at a Lincoln High dance last Friday night and threats that demonstrations with racial overtones would continue Monday brought Bogar's request for uniformed policemen in the building. No incidents occurred Monday while the officers were present.

Bogar said that "student response has been excellent" in returning the school situation to normal.

Creating an advisory group of parents and students concerned with interracial relations will be explored, the principal said.

Officials Discuss Land Acquisition

Land acquisition for the Pound Junior High School site at 4740 So. 45th was discussed by members of the Lincoln Board of Education in executive session Tuesday.

Supt. John Prasch told the board that if an addition would ever be needed at the site the only possibility for expansion would be to the east where vacant lots are available.

Prasch also reported that architect R. O. Freeman has estimated that the cost of the Huntington School cafeteria and gymnasium addition would be $214,780. A bid date will be discussed at the next board meeting

The board reviewed progress of the first negotiating session with Lincoln Education Association representatives and instructed the board negotiating team for sessions Thursday.

Sports Observations

Nebraska baseball coach Tony Sharpe's club opens the season at Houston in only 12 days and if they'd play the games in an indoor batting cage, the Huskers would have to be odds-on favorites.

The home opener is set for April 4 against Kansas State and not even Lloyd's of London would insure that risk of getting that series in on the NU Diamond that could very well resemble the Okeefeenokee Swamp by that time.

Spring Ball Late

Nebraska's spring football workouts will start late this year with the opening date now set for April 13 which is about two weeks later than normal, but by doing that time head coach Bob Devaney may be able to avoid all but the final two snowstorms of the season.

In introducing his two newest staff members, Warren Powers and Bill Thornton, the other night, Devaney commented, "They finished their college careers with us with a good win over Miami back in New York City (Gotham Bowl) and we hope that by getting them back, we'll get back to New York or somewhere down South again."

This was the year that we could have used one of those Miami, Dallas or New Orleans jaunts.

Boys Wil Be Boys?

It might be a sign of the times, but there have been some very goofy, un-American and unencouraging things happen in basketball this winter.

For example, there was Detroit's Spencer Haywood rushing the length of the floor to slug an official. Some pooh-poohed if as just as a boys will be boys act done under the intense excitement of the contest.

As one observer points out, Haywood took more punishment in the Olympics than he'll ever take in a college game and he didn't lose his senses in Mexico City enough to slug a referee.

Not The Only Ones

Then, there was the demand for a public apology by five Notre Dame Negroes because they had been booed by the student body.

We'll agree booing isn't nice and it's not necessary, but Notre Dame students have booed such people as former coach Johnny Jordan and other more celebrated people than those five who demanded the apology.

And how about the Wisconsin basketball team that had to leave the campus because of student demonstrations and practice at Purdue?

Then there was the white player at Oregon State, who was kicked off the team because he told the coach he was playing only under protest unless a Negro teammate was forced to shave his beard and mustache.

A few days earlier the Black Student Union at Oregon State, began a boycott of both athletic contests and classes because football coach Dee Andros had ordered a Negro linebacker to shave off his beard and moustache.

But the topper has to be the plea made by a visiting team's coach to the home team management:

"Please don't embarrass me by playing the National Anthem before the game. If you do, my boys will sit down instead of standing at attention."

However, patriotism won one battle the other night at the NU Coliseum when the school's ROTC marching units performed before and at halftime of the Nebraska-Kansas State game.

They outnumbered the abortive SDS demonstration against the ROTC program at an earlier game by about 25 to 1.

Big Eight Sets Playoff Game

Kansas City (AP) — A one game playoff, if needed, to determine the Big Eight's representative in the NCAA basketball regionals has been set for Monday night in Kansas State's Ahearn Fieldhouse, Wayne Duke, conference commissioner, announced Tuesday.

Arrangements for the playoff were made Tuesday morning in a series of telephone calls involving the head coaches at Kansas, Colorado and Iowa State, the teams involved in the playoff possibility, and athletic director H. B. Lee of Kansas State.

Tickets for the playoff will be available Monday at the athletic business offices of the schools involved, at Kansas State and at the conference office in Kansas City. All 12,500 seats will be unreserved and will cost $2.50.

The game will not be televised, Duke said.

If a three or four game tie develops, the most recent representatives in the NCAA meet, K-State and Kansas, would be eliminated until only two teams remain. If there is a two-way tie — only possible between Kansas and Colorado — a one-game playoff will be necessary because the two teams split their conference games.

Huskers Entered In Three Events In Journal Meet

The University of Nebraska track team will be entered in three events Saturday night at the annual indoor Milwaukee Journal — U.S.T.F.F. Games in Milwaukee, Wis.

Big Eight 600-yard champion Garth Case will enter that event and Greg Carlberg, Big Eight runner-up, will be in the mile field.

The Husker mile relay team will be composed of Case, Bob Pierce, Ron Lange and Clifton Forbes. This quartet was third in the Big Eight meet with 3:18.3 — second-fastest time in NU history — despite some very poor exchanges.

Wilson's Colt Wins Flamingo

. . . TEST FOR 3-YEAR-OLDS

Miami (AP) — Steven B. Wilson's Top Knight, under a perfect ride by Manuel Ycaza, won the 40th running of the Flamingo Stakes before a closing day crowd of about 29,000 at Hialeah Tuesday.

Rokeby Stable's Arts and Letters was second and Ogden Mills Phipps' Beau Brummel third in the field Of a dozen of the best three-year-olds in the country.

Top Knight won by two lengths after running the 1⅛ mile on a fast track in 1:47 4-5, only a shade slower than the track and stakes record of 1:47 set by Bold Ruler in 1957.

Top Knight, voted the best two-year-old in the country last year, was a 7-5 favorite and paid $4.80, $2.60 and $2.20.

Arts and Letters, under Jean Cruget, was second choice and returned $3.20 and $2.60. Show price on Beau Brummel, with Braulio Baeza riding, was $3. All carried 122 pounds.

Arts and Letters, winner of the recent Everglades Stakes at the same distance but under 10 pounds more in the Flamingo, finished one-half length in front of Beau Brummel. It was three-quarters of a length back to Fast Hilarious in fourth position.

Rooney's Shield was fifth, followed in order by Dike, Traffic Mark, Rule of Reason, Sail Lark, Twogundan, Beau of the West and Trade Wagon. Ad Majora was a late scratch.

Top Knight earned $95,160 from the gross purse of $146,400, with $29,280 going to Arts and Letters, $14,640 to Beau Brummel and $7,320 to Fast Hilarious.

Crete, Superior Post Wins

. . . FAIRBURY, WYMORE SOUTHERN B-1 VICTIMS

Second-ranked Crete found the range midway in the second half to dump Fairbury, 62-48, and Superior stopped Southern of Wymore, 72-59, as Class B-1 district tourney play opened at Nebraska Wesleyan Tuesday night.

Fairbury, a two-time loser to Crete during regular season play, took advantage of some errant free throw shooting by the Cardinals in the early stages to keep the Crete club in hot water through three quarters.

The Jeffs, getting good mileage from a balanced attack and a zone defense, led 34-33 with 2:59 remaining in the third period.

Then the Cardinals started living up to their 16-2 record, outscoring the Fairbury five by 21-3 in the next nine minutes.

Triggering the surge was 6-5 Dave Drevo, a tower of strength on the boards all night with 23 rebounds. He contributed seven of the points in the burst which put Fairbury on the ropes.

Coach Walt Harris' Cardinals cashed in on only three of 15 free throw attempts in the first half, but had a run of 11 straight in the second half to finish at 14-29.

Superior went to work early with a blistering inside-outside combination of 6-5 Dan Meyer and 6-4 Mike Sheets.

The twin towers accounted for 14 points apiece in scoring 28 of the first 30 Superior points and sparked the Wildcats to a 38-26 halftime advantage.

Sheets, the game leader with 23 points, hit over the Southern zone and Meyer patroled the inside effectively as the winners dominated their offensive board. Meyer finished with 21 points.

Superior, which advances with a 13-5 record, got more balance in the second half and rolled up a 57-35 advantage after three periods before coach Gary Kile gave his starters a rest.

The Wymore entry got good early work from Bill Nickeson, who finished with 20 points, and a strong second half from sophomore Bob Harris, who finished with 19. Southern closes with a 6-10 mark.

First round play continues tonight with Geneva v. Falls City at 7 and Auburn v. Tri County at 8:30.

Kentucky State Cagers Dominate NWU Opponent

When Kentucky State ripped Nebraska Wesleyan, 117-96, in the finals of the Wisconsin Holiday Basketball Classic the winners made a lasting impression on the Plainsmen.

That was evidenced Tuesday when the NWU all-opponent ballots were cast. Forward Travis Grant and guard Mike Bernard were both named to the first team and guard Jerome Robinson missed the mythical quintet by only one vote.

The two unanimous choices, however, were reserved for Walter Robertson of Chicago Loyola and Jim "The Jet" Williams of nationally ranked Ashland College. Rounding out the top five was Les Grant of Doane.

—UCLANS TOPS, LASALLE SECOND—

No. 1 Bruins Now Bid For 3rd Straight Title

By Associated Press

UCLA's undefeated Bruins, voted the nation's No. 1 collegiate basketball team as expected in the final Associated Press poll, girds now for its bid for an unprecedented third straight NCAA title.

The playoffs wind up the university career of three-time All-American Lew Alcindor and mark the end of an era for the Uclans — but a new one could be coming up.

Winning the poll for the third time in six years, the Bruins overwhelmed runner-up LaSalle and collected 44 of the 45 first-place votes. In points, UCLA led 898 to 724 as LaSalle wound up with a 23-1 record.

Santa Clara, 24-1, advanced to a final No. 3, with North Carolina fourth. Following in the Top Ten were Davidson, Purdue, Kentucky, St. John's of New York, Duquesne and Villanova.

UCLA wound up No. 1 in the final polls of 1963 and 1967, finishing second to Houston a year ago before walloping that team 101-69 in the NCAA semifinals.

This year the Bruins stand 24-0 having won 40 straight since losing to Houston, 71-69, at the Astrodome on Jan. 20, 1968. Remaining on the regular schedule are two games against the University of Southern California this weekend.

Then the Bruins host the Western Regionals of NCAA tournament play.

The 7-foot 1½ Alcindor paces the play. He has averaged 25.1 points per game this season with 602 points and 361 rebounds.

Will the departure of big Lew Mark be the end of a dynasty.

Fans wondered the same thing after Gail Goodrich & Co. won the NCAA titles in 1964 and 1965 with a different style of play.

The style will change again next season, but coach John Wooden won't lack for talent. Heir apparent to the center job is Steve Patterson, a 6-foot-9 sophomore who has shown continual improvement this season, sometimes playing on the five with Alcindor.

The soph brigade also includes Curtis Rowe, averaging 13.8 this season, John Vallely 10.7 and Sidney Wicks 8.3. Coming up from the frosh are Henry Bibby and Andy Hill, a pair of guards who have averaged 27.2 and 20.2.

Still for the Bruins, it's first things first. Honored when he was named the AP player-of-the-year for the second time in three seasons, Alcindor commented:

"The big thing is to win the national title again."

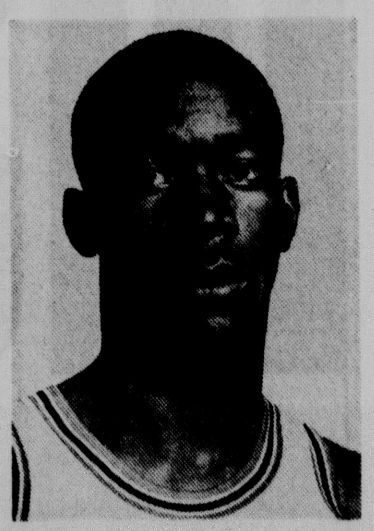
Fast-Improving Cornhuskers Finish With Oklahoma Tour

. . . NU CAGERS VISIT COWBOYS, SOONERS



MARVIN STEWART

Playing like coach Joe Cipriano had hoped for all season, the Nebraska Cornhuskers have belatedly become a factor in the Big Eight basketball race.

In their last two outings, the Huskers have whipped current co-leader Colorado, 79-65, and kayoed Kansas State's title hopes with a 88-71 verdict.

Nebraska, now 11-13 for the season and 4-8 in the Big Eight, winds up the season with a two-game swing into Oklahoma and a chance for a .500 season. The Huskers tackle Oklahoma State, which whipped them 76-52 in Lincoln at always-tough Gallagher Gym Thursday night, then move to Norman for a crack at the Oklahoma Sooners on the Saturday afternoon TV special.

Cipriano will go with his regular starting lineup — the one that has caught late-season fire. Bob Gratopp (12.4) and Ken Cauble (2.4) will be the forwards; Leroy Chalk (8.6) will be at center and the guards will be Tom Scantlebury (11.4) and Marvin Stewart (14.4).

This combination has come fast offensively, but particularly defensively, the last three games.

"We started to play well at Kansas (NU lost 79-73) and we've seen defense become the key," Cipriano said. "But we've still got to quit making so many silly mistakes."

A check of the figures reveals the difference in the Huskers the past three games. Take Chalk, for example. He has a season average of 8.6, but in the last three games he has averaged 18.0; Stewart has a season mark of 14.4, but a three-game average of 18.3; Gratopp has a three-game average of 17.3 versus a season mark of 12.4 and Scantlebury has a three-game average of 15.3 compared to his season mark of 11.4.

Team figures really tell the story of the Husker comeback. The Husker chart:

	Three Games	Season
Field Goal Percentage	.491	.428
Free Throw Percentage	.759	.712
Rebounds	34.3	34.7
Scoring	80.0	73.9
The Husker opponents' chart:
Field Goal Percentage	.424	.450
Free Throw Percentage	.653	.685
Rebounds	28.6	34.0
Scoring	71.6	74.7

Stewart Paces Huskers

Sophomore Marvin Stewart continues to pace Nebraska's basketball scoring with a 14.4 average going into this week's final road trip of the season.

Three other Huskers — Bob Gratopp at 12.4, Tom Scantlebury at 11.4 and Jim Brooks at 11.9 — are in double figures.

Millard Quintet Rebounds, 92-65

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Third-ranked Millard, unbeaten and top rated in Class B until suffering an upset loss last week, rebounded in convincing fashion in a first round District B-2 clash with Ashland at East High Gym Tuesday night, posting a lopsided 92-65 triumph.

Omaha Paul VI squeezed out a 64-62 overtime victory over Nebraska City in the opening contest.

The two winners meet Thursday after Monday night winners Syracuse and Waverly tangle in the other semifinal game. The title tussle is slated for Friday.

Millard didn't grab the lead for good until the final two minutes of the first quarter, as coach Charlie Anderson's Ashland quintet, with three sophomores in the starting lineup, matched points with the tall and talented Millard club.

The winners then tallied six baskets from the offensive boards, with Chuck Wolatz and Gary Bott stuffing back missed shots.

Millard knocked in 22 points while Ashland could manage but nine to decide the issue.

Guard Daryl Petersen matched Wolatz and Bott as they each garnered 15 points for the winners, while Ashland's Randy Swiggart claimed high point honors with 21 counters.

The Paul VI-Nebraska City game was a see-saw affair from the outset, though the winners held the upper hand most of the way.

After edging out to a 20-19 first quarter advantage, the metro city club gained a second-period eight-point bulge, the largest of the game for either team. Nebraska City closed the gap to four at the halftime intermission break, 39-35.

The losers gained the lead for the first time since the opening minutes with 2:45 left, at 48-47. Paul VI got out in front 62-58 with just 46 seconds remaining, but Terry Criger, who led all scorers with 25 points, came up with two quick baskets to knot the count at the end of regulation play.

Though each team had several chances, there was no scoring in the first two minutes of the overtime. When the Omaha club gained possession with just under a minute left, coach Frank Pecha ordered his charges to go for the final shot.

They stalled down the clock until the final seconds when Dennis Riley broke loose for a shot from the free throw line right at the buzzer to break the deadlock.

Plans Set For Prep Golf Meets

The Nebraska School Activities Association has completed plans for district and state level competition in golf this spring.

Four districts in both Class A and B have been established for grass greens play. Class A will include the same schools as that division for basketball, with Class B consisting of all other schools playing grass greens golf.

The first three teams of four boys each and the first five individuals in each district will qualify for the Class A state meet at Fremont, or the Class B in Lincoln. Both state meets will be held on Friday, May 23.

Two classes for the sand greens title will also be held, with schools having boy enrollment of more than 85 in Class A, smaller schools in Class B.

The sand greens state meets will be held May 10, with Class A at Hebron and Class B at Trenton, without prior district qualifying.

Schools may enter either the sand greens or grass greens tournaments, but may not enter a team in both.

Intrasquad Baseball Begins

. . . GENERAL MANAGERS PURSUE LAST HOLDOUTS

By Associated Press

Intrasquad action began in several major league training camps Tuesday while general managers busied themselves in signing the remaining holdouts to contracts.

Minnesota enrolled three players, including second baseman Rod Carew, but still had seven dissatisfied players, including pitchers Jim Kaat and Dean Chance.

Bob Barton, a catcher, signed with the San Francisco Giants, leaving only pitcher Juan Marichal and first baseman Willie McCovey outside the fold.

Shortstop Dal Maxvill agreed to terms with St. Louis, reducing the Cardinal holdout list to one —Julian Javier.

Matty Alou, the runner-up in the National League batting race with a .332 average last year, signed with Pittsburgh as the Pirates completed their player contract business for 1969.

Catcher Jerry Grote slammed two homers and a double and drove in five runs in the New York Mets' opening intrasquad game. Rookies Amos Otis and Leroy Stanton also homered.

Willie Crawford, a speedy outfielder, scored twice and was the offensive star as the Los Angeles Dodgers started intrasquad action. Crawford went from first to third on a wild pickoff throw, impressing Manager Walt Alston. "That's what we like to see," said Alston, "a daring runner."

Ed Kirkpatrick drove in five runs with a triple and a double and Jackie Hernandez and Steve Whitaker also picked up two hits apiece as Kansas City began intrasquad work. Pitchers Jon Warden and Dave Moorhead worked two hitless innings each for the expansionist Royals.

There were 14 walks in Washington's opening intrasquad clash, prompting Manager Ted Williams to note, "Walks always worry you and I hope it registers on our players that the walks led to runs. Hank Allen had a double and a single and drove in two runs in the game.

Williams also announced the addition of Joe Comancho to the Senators' coaching staff. Comancho has been director of the Ted Williams baseball camps for the last eight years and is a principal of an elementary school in New Bedford, Mass.

Officials of Houston and Montreal agreed to go to Atlanta Wednesday in an attempt to talk Donn Clendenon out of retirement.

Clendenon was traded by the expansionist Expos along with Jesus Alou to the Astros for Rusty Staub but the ex-Pittsburgh first baseman's announced retirement has thrown a cloud over the deal.

Stock Mart Closes With Sizable Gain

New York (AP) — The stock market closed the day with a good gain Tuesday by sustraining an upward push throughout the entire trading session.

A variety of market indicators closed the day with plus signs.

These included the Dow Jones industrial average, which was up from the start and closed the day at 919.51 to score a gain of 10.88 points or 1.19%. This was the highest it had reached since Feb. 19 when it closed at 925.10.

Gains also led losses from the start, and of 1,574 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 949 advanced, while 381 declined. There were 6 new highs for 1968-69 and 42 new lows. The Big Board tape was two minutes late at the close.

The advance was a continuation of a rebound that began Monday when the Dow finished the session with a 3.42 point gain. This followed a decline which saw the Dow lose 11.44 points last week and 35.40 points the week previous.

Brokers said that "after such a steep decline, it's natural to get a rebound."

They said that when the market got into an oversold position, a lot of bargain hunters moved into action looking for stocks selling at more favorable prices.

Of the 20 most-active stocks on the New York exchange, 17 scored gains, 2 were lower, and 1 was unchanged.

Glen Alden, the most-active on 166,800 shares, was up ½ at 14¾.

Sinclair Oil Corp., second most-active on 131,000 shares, gained 13½ points to 127 in trading that started just before the closing bell.

Trading in Sinclair and Atlantic Richfield Co. had been delayed throughout the session pending a news announcement. After they opened, Atlantic, 12th most-active, closed unchanged at 105 on 1,200 shares.

The expected announcement came after a federal judge in New York had lifted his preliminary injunction against the merger of Sinclair into Atlantic and shortly after the companies said their merger had been completed.

Of the 20 most-active stocks on the American Stock Exchange, 19 advanced, and 1 was unchanged.

First Issue Demo Paper In Mails

Omaha (AP) — The first issue of the official publication of the Nebraska Democratic Central Committee was in the mail Tuesday to 5,000 party members.

State Chairman John Mitchell said previously the Democratic house organ was a mimeographed newsletter going to 3,100 addresses.

The new publication, called The Nebraska Democrat, is a four-page tabloid edited by the party's administrative assistant, Hess Dyas.

Soybeans, Grains Generally Strong

Chicago (AP) — Soybean and grain futures prices closed on a generally strong tone on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday, with wheat futures advancing more than 1 cent a bushel.

Despite the display of strength, which got into full gear in the last 30 minutes of trade, volume did not appear to be particularly large.

Wheat prices opened on a weak tone, easing ½ cent before some resistance developed and prices turned around. Commission house and commercial buying then developed and on the advance some short covering was noted.

At the close, wheat was ⅛ to 1⅛ cents a bushel higher, March 1.29¾; corn was ⅜ to 1 cent higher, March 1.15¾; oats were unchanged to ½ higher, March 66⅞; rye was ⅞ to 1¾ higher, March 1.16; and soybeans were ⅛ lower to ⅝ higher, March 2.60⅝.

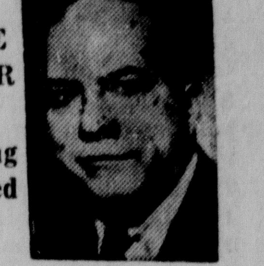
EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Major Influences Outlined On Stock Market Outlook

By Merryle S. Rukeyser



MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Generalizing Discouraged

Since the readjustment in security prices followed the long term advance, it has been fashionable to discourage generalizing about the stock market as a unit and to foster the view that some industries in the near-term are destined to do better than others.

Thus, at a recent seminar held in New York by the National Industrial Conference Board, John W. Corcoran, a top executive of an investment firm, observed: "I would like to establish a basic heresy, namely that the outlook for corporate profits is not a particularly significant influence on the stock market unless, of course, one is hypothesizing an economic disaster. Rather the dominant influence on the outlook for the equity market is the tendency, which we expect to continue, for institutional demand for common stock to exceed the supply of new equities."

The consensus among business economists is that the bipartisan decision at Washington to slow down the rate of growth of the national economy as a means of combating inflation will not permit corporate profits in the aggregate to exceed those of 1968 but that they should run at least 95% of last year's volume.

If Corcoran's proposed yardstick is to be used, then individual investors and speculators face the risk not only of foretelling which industries will be favored in the coming period but also of anticipating how the institutions — the pension funds, investment companies, mutual funds and trustees — will invest in accordance with their own expectations of the outlook.

Four Major Groups

Corcoran focused on four major groups. He called attention first to "consumer spending in the nondurable and particularly the service sector areas which because of their minimal cyclical sensitivity are likely to grow more rapidly than the total environment."

His second pointing was to residential construction, about which he said: "The demand factors here are obvious, and we expect gradual improvement in the availability of mortgage funds. The major concern here is the shortage of skilled construction labor which we expect to moderate the gain in starts to an annual rate of roughly 10% per year over the next three to four years."

Corcoran added: "The third area is the financial intermediary sector, i.e. the banks, life insurance companies, etc. We expect this area to benefit materially from the tendency for longer-term interest rates to remain at historically high levels."

Then, fourthly, he called attention to laggard heavy industries, where, he said, "the rapid rate of inflation in the capital goods markets, impacting negatively on already low rates of return, is serving to arrest the rate of addition to new capacity and thus to create fundamental improvements in the supply-and-demand balance. We have a decidely positive impact on pricing."

Has Been Changing

With inflation goes deflation. The inflationary psychology of speculators has been changing. There is growing opinion that the tempo of national economic growth will be deliberately slowed up through restraints in taxation, such as continuation of the federal income tax surcharge after June 20, and in monetary policy, such as the decision of the Federal Reserve to reduce the rate of increase of the money supply.

Inflation is not a permanent way of life because it can operate only until people suddenly lose confidence in the currency. But recent international events, culminating in the weakness of the French franc and the British pound, have made the dollar relatively stronger, and confidence in the dollar has been growing while the adverse international balance of payments has been improving.

Despite the narrowing favorable balance of U.S. exports over imports, exports of the U.S. have been rising at around eight to nine per cent a year, which is faster than the increment in domestic sales. However, inflation here has made the purchasing power of the dollar higher abroad than at home, and imports have been skyrocketing at rates running at times between 15% and 22%.

While this is a time for reorientation, it should not be overlooked that, after the current readjustment, politics will favor gradual inflation as a result of the desire of politicians to gain favor by giveaway schemes paid for by taxpayers.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquires from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped self adressed envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column. Others, to the extent time permits, will be handled by mail.)

Prison Brutality Alleged . . .

Strom Butts Into Testimony

Washington (AP) — Vivid allegations of brutality and perversion in Arkansas and Virginia state prisons were unfolded at a Senate hearing Tuesday. Sen. Strom Thurmond accused one witness of giving "nauseating and disgusting" testimony in a publicity-seeking bid to "besmirch the great state of Virginia."

The charge by the South Carolina Republican came during a brief appearance of less than 10 minutes in the 2½-hour hearing by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd's juvenile delinquency subcommittee, holding a series of hearings on prison conditions.

Witnesses said that in both states there is widespread homosexuality, guards encourage sexual perversion and prisoners are often free to assault fellow felons.

'Monster Factories'

Thomas O. Murton, former superintendent of the Arkansas State Penitentiary, said that, throughout the country, "Our prisons, in varying degrees, are monster-producing factories." He said ofifcials themselves are often the biggest barrier to reform.

Philip J. Hirschkop, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney who has been studying Virginia prison conditions, was summarizing a lengthy statement alleging that prisoners were often subject to the whim of warped and sadistic superintendents when Thurmond arrived and broke into his testimony.

"Have you called attention of these matters to the governor?" he asked. Hirschkop said he had conferred with Virginia Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. and other officials.

'Off On A Hunt'

Thurmond then noted the attorney was supposed to be testifying about handling of juvenile prisoners. "But you've gone off here on another hunt to try to downgrade and besmirch the great state of Virginia," he continued. "Why don't you stick to your subject?"

"I'm not trying to downgrade the state of Virginia. I'm trying to state facts," Hirschkop replied.

In response to further questioning by Thurmond, the attorney said he is paid an $1,800-a-month retainer by the National Education Association, is under contract to but has done no work for a group affiliated with the Office of Economic Opportunity and has yet to be paid for the prison studies.

Getting Off Subject

"I think we're getting a little far from the subject," he said.

"I'm just trying to bring out your background," the South Carolina senator continued. "Aren't you here to make a sensational statement for the purposes of publicity?"

"I consider it truth . . . a despicable truth," the lawyer responded, adding that some of the conditions he was describing also exist in South Carolina.

$1.8 Billion Merger Joins Two Of Biggest Oil Firms

New York (AP) — A $1.8-billion merger Tuesday joined two of the biggest U.S. oil companies, Atlantic Richfield Co. and Sinclair Oil Corp.

And the court-approved transaction opened the door to U.S. oil markets to a big British petroleum company — BP Oil Corp.

Merger of Sinclair into Atlantic Richfield has been in the works since last October and under fire from the Justice Department.

The Justice Department Monday reluctantly agreed to the merger under certain conditions. A U.S. District Court in New York Tuesday vacated the preliminary injunction it had granted the department and cleared the way for completion of the transaction.

A condition insisted upon by the Justice Department was sale of 10,000 Sinclair service stations in 16 eastern states, Atlantic Richfield's refinery at Port Arthur, Tex., and Sinclair's refinery at Marcus Hook, Pa., to BP for $400 million.

It will be BP's initial entry into U.S. markets. It holds interests in northern Alaska oil deposits and has been seeking a North American outlet.

BP, which operates refineries in 28 countries, is a subsidiary of British Petroleum.

The merger was accomplished through an exchange of stock.

Robert O. Anderson, Atlantic Richfield chairman, called this "an historic day for all three of these great companies."

He said the merger would "contribute needed strength for the growth of a healthier, more competitive energy company."

The merged company will operate under the Atlantic Richfield name.

Drive To Remove 100 Junkers Set

A citywide drive is being planned to get rid of at least 100 abandoned cars as part of the city's "Operation Goodbye Junker" program.

Leo Scherer, administrative assistant to the mayor and program coordinator, said the weekend drive will be held on March 22-23 and will include personnel and equipment from private contractors, the military, the City of Lincoln, and REACT (Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Team).

"If anyone is unable to move an abandoned or junked vehicle, they can be picked up and disposed of through the program at no cost to the property owner or vehicle owner," Scherer said.

Scherer said slightly more than 400 vehicles have been removed from property either by the removal program or by citizens removing the cars on their own initiative.

Scherer noted that city ordinance prohibits parking a non-operating vehicle on private property longer than 30 days unless the vehicle is in a building or on properly zoned area.

The ordinance gives the city the right to impound such vehicles and prosecute the violators.

Police Hold 3 Teenagers In Rape Case

Three Lincoln youths, ages 16, 15, and 14-years-old, were arrested by Lincoln police late Tuesday night for allegedly raping a 13-year-old Lincoln girl.

Police said the girl was taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital for treatment of several bruises.

Police said the youths apparently picked the girl up after school and then raped her.

"Only two of the youths apparently raped her," a police spokesman said, "the other helped hold her down."

Board Of Equalization Hears Sewer Assessment Protests

Objections were aired Tuesday regarding sewer assessments in a sewer district encompassing the Lincoln Industrial Park and the Knolls during the City Board of Equalization meeting.

Attorneys for Cushman Motors and the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Corp. and area property owners presented their arguments during the meeting.

Robert Guenzel, an attorney representing the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Corp., said industries in the industrial park do not receive benefits from two sewers in the area.

He and Warren Dalton, attorney for Cushman Motors, inquired of city officials how assessment computations are made.

Wilmer Hunt, deputy city engineer, explained the method of computing assessments.

Several property owners in the residential area of Sewer District No. 835 said they were troubled by the assessments to their irregular shaped lots.

Hunt said the city's policy in assessing for sewer is to base the costs upon the front footage of property.

Gruenzel claimed during the meeting that sewer lines in the industrial park area detract from rather than increase property values and are also a disadvantage in negotiations.

The attorneys did not complete their cases and the board indicated it would hear further objections at a later date.

NWU Elects Blankenship

Robert Blankenship of Beatrice was elected president of the student senate at Wesleyan University Tuesday in a close election.

Blankenship defeated his opponent, Bruce Boyd of Omaha, by three votes. Blankenship received 292 and Boyd 289.

Running on the ticket with Blankenship was Dick Bowen of Red Cloud. Their platform called for increased academic and social freedom on the campus, creating a Free University and a student activities board and reapportionment of the student senate.

Boyd, who ran with Mary Comstock of Bellevue, called for a more meaningful role for the student senate and adoption of a student bill of rights.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

You can't blow your horn in Santiago. Women have had the vote since 1940. Chile makes the best wine in South America — red, white and bubbly.

The country elects civilian presidents.

People are well-dressed — women inclined to be tall, miniskirted.

The tourist bureau handout says flatly: "There are no Indians or Negroes in Chile, therefore we have no racial problems."

☆ ☆ ☆

Chile is a long thin strip down the coast of South America — it is longer than the distance from New York to Los Angeles.

We settled at the Carrera Hilton, $7 a day with a view of the Andes snow-capped in the South American summer.

It runs 75 to 85 degrees daytime here now. There's no humidity.

☆ ☆ ☆

We went out to see the American Ambassador Edward M. Corry — Kennedy sent him to Ethiopia, Johnson sent him down here.

He said: "Here is probably the most democratic country in South America. Santiago is a coffee house sort of city. You can discuss all kinds of divergent ideas."

In Peru, the government seized the American oil company and much tension is developing. The Russians are sending a trade mission. Brazil is siding with Peru. A potential break in the American wall.

"But here," said the ambassador, "Chile produces most of the world's copper, owned by Anaconda and other U.S. copper companies.

"The president worked out a deal with them. He bought 40% interest in their holdings. Paid cash for it. So the country shares in the production, and everybody seems happy."

☆ ☆ ☆

"Every lady of Santiago has something of the princess about her." So wrote a visiting poet a century ago.

"Women are much more powerful here than in the rest of South America," said a Chilean businessman. "I mean, if you are late for dinner, you phone your wife and tell her when you will be there.

"Now a man wouldn't do that in Colombia or Brazil or most places."

He said this goes back to the first Spaniards. "Pedro de Valdivia was the first conquistador. He brought along his wife, Inez de Suarez.

"One time when he was away from the fort, the Indians attacked. Inez took charge and beat them off. Chilean women have been held in high regard ever since."

He said: "Before the battle started, Inez took seven Indian chiefs being held hostage and had them beheaded." He added witha smile:

"That kind of policy is why we have no racial problems today."

☆ ☆ ☆

Woke on Sunday morning with a burst of music from the square. And, so help me, it was "Begin the Beguine."

"They are changing the guard at the palace," said the chambermaid.

The soldiers in dark tunics were lined up facing each other at 50 yards in the morning sunlight.

It was a buster of a band. They marched back and forth playing Cole Porter, Strauss, Chilean airs. They were great.

At the finish, they halted and played the national anthem.
